GERMANY CALLS ANGLO STAND INSULT TO NATION

Roosevelt Says Soviet Note Not 'Pressure'

Senator Denounces Embargo Policy as Aid to Aggressors

Ohio Republican Approves Provisions to Prohibit U. S. Ships From Taking Goods to Europe

Cites Suspicion

Taft Says Opponents Fear Roosevelt's 'Tendency' to Interfere

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) denounced today an arms embargo policy as favoring aggressors against peaceful nations and urged the Senate to adopt the administration bill repealing the ban on munitions shipments.

He voiced approval of provisions which would prohibit American ships from carrying goods to warring countries, but recommended elimination of a section permitting 90-day credits on arms sales.

"We should prohibit our ships from going to Europe," he said. "That policy is no more cowardly than it is to keep people out of a burning house. It is simply good sense that we prevent American citizens not only from risking their own lives, but from plunging us into a war which may involve millions of other lives."

Taft is one of a half dozen Republican senators favoring repeal of the arms embargo. He told the Senate repeatedly that he believed the United States could remain out of the European war.

Would Be Big Error
"The President of the United States," Taft said, "would make a tremendous mistake if he regarded the passage of this bill as in any way a symbol of popular approval of interference in Europe."

The popular opposition to this bill, as far as it exists, is based on suspicion of the President's tendency to interfere in the European war. He has publicly pledged his determination to keep America at peace, and we can surely accept that pledge."

A bi-partisan agreement has been worked out in the Senate to relax stringent shipping provisions of the administration's neutrality bill.

In general, influential senators today, the projected change would permit American merchant vessels to sail to all areas where they would not be in danger.

Would Define Areas
It was said that these areas would be defined in the legislation itself, but that they might be further restricted by presidential order if danger to shipping should arise later.

The neutrality bill as now phrased, besides repealing the arms embargo, would forbid American ships and citizens to visit belligerent nations and their possessions.

Several senators have contended that this provision would wipe the growing American merchant marine from the seas, since it would block trade with British colonies as well as the warring countries in Europe.

Some ships can't lie idle," commented Senator Borah (R.-Idaho). "If we don't use them, I guess we will have to sell them to the British. That would give them control of commerce throughout the world."

Administration backers, reiterating expressions of confidence that the bill would be approved, told reporters that relaxation of shipping provisions should generate even more support.

But opposition Senators, elated by the gain of two votes in the last two days, declared that sentiment was swinging their way. The two votes were those of Senators Donahay (D-Ohio) and Chavez (D-N.M.), who announced that they favored retaining the arms embargo.

"I think we've got a good chance to win," said Senator Clark (D-Mo.), an opposition leader. "Of course, if the vote came today we would probably get licked."

Administration leaders still were claiming more than 60 of the 96 Senate votes. An Associated Press tabulation showed that 50 Senators have publicly voiced support of repeal, while 22 have made statements in opposition.

Debate on the measure continued today, with Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) scheduled to speak first in support of repeal and Senator Nye (R-ND) listed to follow with an opposition address.

Democratic Leader Barkley called for a Saturday session in order to get additional speeches out of the way and said he was trying to get the chamber "speedy and efficient."

President Says He Has No Comment to Make Upon Berlin's Bids for Peace as Outlined

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that American representations to Soviet Russia were merely an expression of interest and hope that nothing would be done to disturb peaceful relations in the Baltic or the independence of Finland.

Th chief executive told a press conference that the diplomatic action was not to be construed in any way as a pressure move by the American government.

For that reason—because he did not want any misunderstanding, the president said, he was withholding for the time being the text of the representation made at Moscow yesterday by Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt.

The note Steinhardt delivered undoubtedly would be acknowledged, he said.

Nothing to Say
Asked about latest informal peace bids from Berlin, the President said he had nothing to say on that. He added in response to another question that he had received no official word from the German government.

In Berlin, however, authorized Nazis said any neutral action must come in response to Hitler's Reichstag speech and not as a result of any diplomatic action or request from Germany.

Mr. Roosevelt's remark that he had nothing to say on German peace talk came after a reporter said Hitler would like to see this country settle "the European hash" and asked whether the President intended to do anything about it.

Outlining the chronology of the Russian matter, the President said that on Monday of this week he began to worry about the situation in the Baltic because it looked as if it might be heading toward an extension of wars.

On Tuesday, he continued, diplomatic representatives of several Scandinavian nations called at the state department and the White House and said they were very much concerned. There was no suggestion, however, of joint action.

Personal Message
On Wednesday, the President drafted a personal message to President Kalinin of the U. S. S. R. and waited until Secretary Hull returned to the city that afternoon when they edited it.

The message, Mr. Roosevelt said, expressed the hope that nothing would occur to disturb Baltic peace or Finland's independence.

It was sent to Moscow that afternoon. It was not given to the press at that time, however, because action had not been completed. Not until yesterday was the message actually delivered by Ambassador Steinhardt.

The President said Steinhardt's call at the Kremlin was for no other purpose than to present the message of the Soviet chief of state.

Unverified Rumors
On war problems more close to home, the President said that the government had received unverified rumors that Italian tankers had been refueling a foreign submarine in the South Atlantic, but the story had not been given out officially, he emphasized, because it was not in verified form.

The chief executive made this comment in response to a question. He said it was a good example of the administration's honest efforts to tell the press everything that can properly be told.

It meant, he added, that he was not giving to the press unverified rumors of all kinds that come in every day.

Stories given out about foreign submarines in the past have been fully verified, he added. Stories not given out, he explained, were of the type brought in by fishermen who say they have just seen a submarine.

Could Stand It
"I couldn't stand it any longer. He was just like dead all the time. He couldn't walk or talk or see."

The boy became blind after an unsuccessful brain operation five months ago.

Automatic Changes in Wage-Hour Law To Affect Almost Two Million Workers

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—Officials estimated today that 650,000 American workers would get pay increases and an additional 1,100,000 would get shorter hours or overtime pay when automatic changes take place in the wage-hour law October 24.

On that date, the law provides that 30 cents an hour shall become the minimum wage and 42 hours the maximum work week for employees whose products move in interstate commerce. The standards will replace the 25-cent hourly minimum and 44-hour maximum week in effect for the first year of the act's operation.

At the same time, about 175,000 textile workers are expected to get pay increases under the 32½-cent hourly minimum ordered for their industry by Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, on recommendation of the textile industry committee.

An estimated 46,000 hosiery workers, meanwhile, are receiving wage increases which become effective September 18 as a result of the 32½ and 40-cent minimum ordered for the seamless and full-fashioned divisions, respectively.

Preliminary figures place the total wage increase expected from the higher standards for all industries at $100,000,000 for the year beginning October 24.

It works like this: On October 24 a worker getting the present minimum wage of 25 cents an hour or $11 for a 44-hour week will be paid 30 cents an hour, or $12.60 for a 42-hour week.

Wage-hour officials estimate that 450,000 employers in the United States, employing in excess of 12,000,000 persons, are covered by the act.

Army Speculating On Value of New Guns After Tests

Abertown Proving Ground, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—The army has demonstrated publicly for the first time the fire power of its electrically-aimed anti-aircraft guns, only to revive speculation over their effectiveness against bombing planes at extreme altitudes.

Targets towed by bombers at 10,000 feet, before an audience composed of Army Ordnance Association members, were centered now and then in bursting 3-inch shells yesterday, but a large proportion of the projectiles trailed the targets by several hundred feet.

Army bombers consistently practice on targets from altitudes of 20,000 feet and above. What accuracy the guns, operated in batteries of four and firing en masse 100 shots a minute, would be able to attain at that height, army officers at the proving ground declined to estimate.

The maximum range of the guns is about 30,000 feet. Less question met the performance of bombers dropping 2,000-pound projectiles from 10,000 feet. Two planes within minutes of each other planted their bombs at almost the same spot on the target range.

The bombs required 20 seconds to reach the ground. The exhibition showed the accuracy of the army's highly secret bomb sighting device which compensates for all the variables such as air speed, altitude and wind.

Japanese Smash Bank in Shanghai

Twenty Plain Clothesmen Overpower Watchmen

Shanghai, Oct. 13 (AP)—Twenty armed Japanese plainclothesmen today occupied the building of the Bank of Communications—a Chinese government bank—in the British defense sector of the international settlement.

The British forces took no immediate action. The plainclothesmen, apparently attached to the Japanese police force for occupied portions of Shanghai, were reported to have removed bank stationery and part of the building's furnishings, and to have caused other damage.

The building, situated on the Bund, had been used as living quarters for the staff since banking operations were transferred to the French concession in November, 1937.

The Japanese were said to have overpowered a small group of watchmen and other attendants. Occupation of the building created a delicate situation since any attempt at ejection might broaden the affair into another British-Japanese dispute.

Man Runs Into Plane Propeller, Lives to Tell

Newark, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP)—Conrad H. Gunther of Jamaica, L. I., ran into an airplane propeller whirling at top speed and lived to tell about it today.

He ran to retrieve his hat, blown off by the propeller yesterday. He was struck by the propeller and knocked off his feet. The blade inflicted four deep cuts down his back.

D. E. Fink, airport flight surgeon, said if any one of the gashes had been one-eighth of an inch deeper, Gunther's spine would have been severed. At Beth Israel Hospital today Gunther's condition was termed "fair."

$130,000 Gem Theft Cincinnati, Oct. 13 (AP)—Cincinnati police broadcast today that three robbers had kidnapped a New York gem salesman and fled with diamonds valued at $130,000. Identity of the victim was not immediately available. Police broadcast a description of the robbers, with the information they had fled in a sedan bearing Indiana license.

Invitations Accepted Stockholm, Oct. 13 (AP)—King Gustaf today invited and received acceptance from the Kings of Denmark and Norway and the president of Finland to meet him in Stockholm October 18, presumably to discuss the Finnish-Russian question. Foreign ministers of the Scandinavian nations will accompany their rulers.

Supersedes Byrne New Orleans, Oct. 13 — James O'Connor, first assistant attorney general of Louisiana, today superseded District Attorney Charles A. Byrne who was charged with lack of cooperation by the Orleans parish grand jury in its investigation of dual office holding and payroll "deadheads."

Railroads to Spend 80 Millions to Keep Business Moving

Effect Upon Labor Is Not Known Yet; Travel Has Taken Quick Upward Swing

New Trains to Run Santa Fe, Rock Island and Pennsylvania Are Among Builders

Chicago, Oct. 13 (AP)—America's railroads, given the "highball" by an upsurge in business, have pulled the spending throttle and are pouring more than $80,000,000 into their property to keep the nation's trade and travel moving.

How much this will mean in jobs is incalculable, railroad men said. Contracts are scattered over a wide range of industries, much of the repair work can be done by crews maintained by individual lines, and the steel mills, sources of new rail, are rolling at capacity.

Nor is this multimillion-dollar spurt caused by lagging operations and depreciation during slump times. Streamlined fleets of trains have been built up during depression years and the roads have spent millions to keep their systems operating properly when business was low.

Railway Age, the carriers' trade magazine, reported $80,000,000 worth of contracts for supplies and work were placed during September. New building and modernization programs, many of which won't be completed until next year, more than equal that figure.

Pennsylvania Railroad is spending $20,000,000 over its regularly scheduled expenditures. This will pay for 2,500 new freight cars, 20 new electric locomotives, three new streamlined passenger cars, streamlined modernization of 100 passenger cars, repairs to 17,500 hopper gondola and boxcars and 80,000 tons of new rail.

Five thousand additional men have been put on for the Pennsylvania repair work.

The Santa Fe system, operating through the southwest to the Pacific coast, has allotted $21,000,000 this year for 91,000 tons of rail, 2,800 new freight cars and for reconstruction and repairs.

Next month the Rock Island Lines will place into service two new seven-car "roads" trains between Chicago and Colorado, costing a total of $1,200,000. The lines have received court authorization to spend $4,375,000 more on 20 Diesel switch engines, 1,000 new boxcars and for rebuilding old boxcars.

Central Building The New York Central system's program calls for $10,000,000 worth of rail and freight equipment.

The Illinois Central's $9,200,000 spending plan will include purchase of 1,500 coal cars, 1,000 boxcars, 10 Diesel electric switch locomotives and 17,600 tons of new rail for 1940 delivery.

The Milwaukee road received court authorization to buy 10 locomotives and 2,000 boxcars for $6,350,000 and will soon contract for 30,000 tons of rail and track fastenings for the 1940 program. In addition 1,000 cars now are under construction.

Five hundred new freight cars are being built by the Chicago and North Western. In conjunction with the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific lines it is arranging to spend $4,000,000 during the next year for the two new streamlined passenger cars for service between Chicago and the west coast.

The Burlington Railroad will add three 4,000 horsepower Diesel electric locomotives, capable of more than 100 miles an hour, to its fleet next spring. The road also has scheduled construction of 10 steam locomotives and purchase of 100 flat cars and 250 steel hopper cars. More than $3,000,000 will be spent.

Has Her Reason New Orleans, Oct. 13 (AP)—One reason she wants her brother freed from a three-year grand larceny term, Miss Isabelle Bernard told the state pardon board, is that she wants to get married. "I work and help support my father and mother. If brother were released he could take my place at home."

Archie Is Suspicious Tulsa, Ok., Oct. 13 (AP)—Archie Guthrie, 10-year-old runaway, checked his big .44 revolver at the police station and asked for a place where he could meet on the highway. He explained, A call to Carthage, Mo., disclosed Archie had run away from home. He will be returned today.

Bremen Lands at Red Seaport

The ship's band played and the crew of more than 900 snapped into the Nazi salute as Germany's luxury liner Bremen slipped into port at Murmansk, Russia, after dodging the British blockade on a perilous trans-Atlantic crossing from New York. This picture of the Bremen arriving at Murmansk was brought to Amsterdam by a Dutch cook, E. Post, who was on the Bremen during the crossing. The photo was transmitted to London by wire and thence to New York by radio.

Baby of 'Polio' Victim Developing Normally

Greeley, Colo., Oct. 14 (AP)—A baby girl born five weeks after her mother was stricken with infantile paralysis, is developing normally at a Greeley hospital.

The mother, Mrs. David McCain, of Ault, Colo., survived the birth and is under treatment for the paralysis. When the six-pound girl was born September 20, the disease had paralyzed Mrs. McCain's legs and affected her left shoulder.

Cairo Man Becomes State Executioner; Succeeds Elliott

Traveling Salesman, 42, Refuses to Talk About His New Work; Comes From Minnesota

Cairo, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—A quiet Catskill Mountain villager, Joseph Francel, had a new job today, state's official executioner.

The Cairo traveling salesman, with a voice as soft as his blue eyes, found himself the subject of wide comment after his appointment was disclosed by prison sources at Ossining yesterday.

The 42-year-old war veteran, father of two children, succeeds Robert Elliott, who died Tuesday. Last night Francel secluded himself in his rambling home on Main street, refusing to discuss his new work and threatening to call police to "keep people away."

Francel preferred to go quietly to a church social. A former electrician, the tall, lean salesman, it was reported at Ossining, officiated at an execution in Sing Sing prison August 25, when Arthur Perry, New York negro slayer, was executed.

Because he performed efficiently and without emotion, prison attaches said, he was selected to succeed Elliott.

Mrs. Francel said she knew nothing about the appointment and had not heard it mentioned until yesterday.

Francel will be paid the usual $150 for each execution. Francel came here in 1923 from St. Cloud, Minn., and operated a garage for 12 years. He is a leader in American Legion activities.

Fire on Beach Street Fire, in a shingle roof of an outside cook house at 1 Beach street, caused the fire department to respond to a still alarm about 11 o'clock this morning. The fire, however, was extinguished when the firemen arrived as neighbors had thrown pails of water on the flames. According to the fire department the fire was caused by sparks from the stove. The building is owned by the Hutton Company and occupied by Otis Lee, a negro, and his family.

Official Release On Chamberlain's Speech Handed Out

Says Rejection Means War Unto Annihilation of the German People and the Reich

Blames Premier

Statement Says Chamberlain Did Not Want to See Hitler's Idea

Berlin, Oct. 13 (AP)—The German government took the stand today that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace overtures means "war against the German people, war against the German Reich unto annihilation."

The statement was issued in the form of an official press release on Chamberlain's speech to the House of Commons yesterday. It was handed to foreign correspondents during the daily press conference.

It reads as follows: "Chamberlain's speech is an unheard-of insult to Germany. Indulging in unbelievably insolent aspersions on the German Reich and its policy, Chamberlain in his speech rejected the hand of peace outstretched to him by the Fuehrer."

Did Not Try to Understand
"Chamberlain evidently did not want to understand the Fuehrer's great action, springing from his consciousness of responsibility."

"While Germany wants peace, while the Fuehrer made constructive proposals for building up a peaceful, secure Europe, Chamberlain and his clique desired war."

"In his speech, he did not represent the cause of the people but the cause of a small clique which sees its task in war. This (yesterday) afternoon, Chamberlain not only before the Lower House (Commons), but before the entire world, rejected Germany's hand of peace and thereby gave an answer to the appeal which the Fuehrer made in his speech October 6 when he said:

"May those peoples and their leaders now speak up who are of a similar mind and may they reject my hand who believe they must see war as a better solution."

"Chamberlain and his followers have decided in favor of the latter."

No Further Doubt
"After this speech by the English prime minister, there can no longer exist any doubt among the German people that no matter what we do, what we say, what we offer, Chamberlain and his clique are determined—at the same time that they utter hypocritical phrases—to annihilate the German people."

"Chamberlain's speech reveals the real meaning of England's war aims and this meaning is: War against the German people, war against the German Reich unto annihilation. The speech of the English premier is built upon lies and climaxed in a lie."

"And while charging German policy with breaking (Germany's) word, he forgets that the world knows that England's world empire is built solely on force and lies. England wanted the war. To be sure, the English prime minister rejected all attempts in recent times to bring about peace."

"Although he knows better, he claims that, for instance, Germany declined Mussolini's offer of mediation. It is certain that after France accepted it, it was England which brought Mussolini's broad-minded action of mediation to a fall and thereby incited the French people into the most senseless war of all times."

"After Chamberlain's speech, the German people know what their enemies want. From the experience of Versailles, the German people know that England's will to annihilation can do and it therefore knows the path it must tread in order to foil this will of its enemies."

Wordy Debate Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—More than 265,000 words have been spoken thus far in the Senate's neutrality debate. The estimate came from the official shorthand reporters. Senator Tobey (R., N. H.), who can rattle along at 300 words a minute, has been the fastest talker. But Senator Downey (D., Calif.) was credited with having uttered the most words. He spoke for seven hours.

War Branch Drafts Plans for Trucks

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—The war department is drafting orders for about 8,000 motor trucks and other vehicles, official sources reported today, largely to put the army's new "streamlined" divisions on wheels.

Bids already being asked of manufacturers represent prospective purchases, totaling about $15,000,000, of light combat and reconnaissance cars as well as trucks of several sizes.

Thousands of vehicles will be required to complete the equipment of the more than 70,000 officers and men of five divisions and auxiliary troops to be massed for special training this winter in the south and northwest.

Their equipment for motor transport was said officially to be only about 36 per cent complete. Specifications call for first deliveries within a few weeks, and all must be completed in the next six months.

Summer is beginning again for a plum tree in the back-yard of Mrs. William M. Frank of Buffalo. Two limbs are blossoming although they have borne their quota of fruit.

SEVEN DIE IN SCHOOL BUS PLUNGE

The driver and six school children were killed when this school bus hurtled over a 75-foot embankment near War, W. Va., and tumbled to railroad tracks below. At least 60 other school children were injured in the screaming jumble as the bus rolled down the jagged cliff. The driver lost control when a front axle broke.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 13.—Mrs. H. McCracken and children have removed to Boiceville and are now making their home with Mrs. McCracken's mother, Mrs. Cassie Bogart, on the north boulevard.

The work of widening the pavement atop of the Beaverkill dike is being done simultaneously with that of repairing and lowering the bluestone guard wall on the upstream side of the dike. A layer of fine screen stone is rolled down on a bed of sand to add two feet or more to the roadway.

Postmaster Julia Winchell has received literature and other material for use in connection with current Red Cross campaign for memberships and contributions. Mrs. Winchell, as local chairman for the town of Olive, will make known shortly the names of the field workers who will assist in the drive this year.

Ephraim Weeks, who until recently was actively engaged in farming at the age of 78 years, is reported as gaining slowly in his illness. Mr. Weeks' many friends throughout the county trust that he will soon be around again.

Members of the reservoir maintenance force have done a good job of laying a non-skid surface at several points on the north boulevard pavement between here and Temple's Pond.

Grant Lavery has a number of apple pickers at work in his big mountain side orchard in the Back Brook country. Grant's total crop of picked apples, mostly Baldwins and Northwestern Greenings, will be around 400 bushels this year.

John Adsit, who was employed at Lake Mohonk during the summer and early fall, has returned to his home in the village center. October 13, 1913, Everett E. Scudder, an assistant engineer of the executive division of the Reservoir Department died. Mr. Scudder was in charge of construction of the Hurley dike, the contract for which was held by MacArthur Brothers Company. C. E. Raynor, an assistant engineer in the real estate division, was designated to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Scudder.

Lawrence Spencer of the north boulevard is again engaged on a painting job at Peekamoose. The Spencer family plans to leave Shokan around Thanksgiving time to spend the winter in Florida's Indian river country.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terhune and daughters of Mt. Vernon spent the week-end at the Walter Naughton bungalow. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Terhune's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Naughton, who have been coming to Shokan for many years. Mr. Naughton, in telling his friends about his annual trip to the Danbury fair, said that he was most impressed by the 75 yoke of oxen, including 15 pair in one team, which were exhibited at the fair.

Mrs. Aner E. Longyear and Miss Edna Longyear attended the funeral of Charles MacDonald in Kingston Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. MacDonald is a niece of Mrs. Longyear.

Included in a well executed group photograph of the Boiceville school are the teacher, Mrs. James Robinson, and the janitor, "Honest John" McKelvey. The pupils this fall number 17, which is about equal to the combined enrollments at the Shokan and Brown's Station schools.

Frank Myers, Shokan and Kingston plumbing contractor, who rented his residence and store to Raymond Dalrymple of Wurtsboro, is making his home temporarily in a house car at the Myers place.

Postmasters Take Appetite Honors

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—The nation's postmasters left Washington today with undisputed claim to the capital's "big appetite" title tucked safely beneath their belts.

As the political center of the country, Washington has seen and heard some tremendous eaters, but collectively they were pikers when it came to the delegates who attended the convention of the National Association of Postmasters.

Amid the clatter of 50,000 pieces of china, 3,548 diners enjoyed a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel last night. It was the largest ever served in a hotel here.

Besides the 50,000 pieces of china, they used, among other things: 21,000 pieces of silver, 6,000 Maryland biscuits, 25 gallons of olives, 1,800 loaves of capons, 75 bushels of potatoes, 150 dozen grapefruit.

The hotel saw early in the day that it could not meet the chair situation, so it called on eight other hostesses to help furnish something for the postmasters to

After the dinner Postmaster General James A. Farley spoke.

Five dining rooms were required, and the seating was worked out roughly on this basis: Those who had never seen and heard the postmaster general were given places in the main dining room.

Those who had seen him only once, were seated in an adjoining room, where they could see him but could hear him only through an amplifier.

Those who had seen and heard him often dined elsewhere in the hotel.

Busier and more fatigued than any postmaster was Fred Wiesinger, the maître d'hôtel.

Five Porters Hurt In Train Wreck

Philadelphia, Oct. 13 (AP)—A freight train locomotive side-swiped a Pennsylvania Railroad Chicago-to-New York express in the yards today, derailing four passenger cars and injuring five negro porters.

No passengers were reported hurt. The accident occurred in the same part of the yards west of the Schuylkill river where two railroad employees were injured in a similar accident July 29.

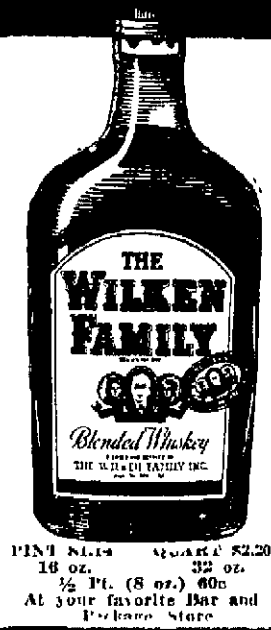

Harry E. Wolcott, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania's Philadelphia yards said first information about the accident indicated the freight locomotive moved onto the main line tracks without heeding a stop signal.

The derailed cars did not overturn. The train was delayed an hour and 15 minutes.

Cites Rothstein Loan

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—A former charter member of the American communist party told the House committee investigating un-Americanism, that Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler, loaned the communist-dominated Furrier Union about $1,750,000 in 1926, some of which went to New York policemen. The witness, Maurice L. Malkin, Russian-born naturalized American citizen, testified that $110,000 was paid to policemen in a 17-week period during the 1926 furriers' strike for keeping away from the union's "sluggers."

Summer Bogart Killed

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 13 (AP)—Summer Bogart, 35, of Scarsdale, N. Y., was killed today when his single-seater airplane crashed on the James P. Warburg estate here. Employees at the estate, who rushed to the scene, found Bogart dead. Dr. John A. Clarke, medical examiner, said Bogart died of a fractured skull. Bogart had taken off at Armonk, N. Y., a short time before the crash.

KERHONKSON

Kerhonkson, Oct. 13—An exchange of ideas usually stimulates growth. With this in mind, some members of the Flying Goose staff attended the regular press conference at Fort Jervis last Friday. The group was in charge of Miss Muriel H. Barry, faculty advisor of the school paper. Dr. Wise, the instructor in journalism in the New Rochelle High School, led a lively discussion on "How to Put Out a School Paper." After this, the students broke up into smaller groups and talked over their individual problems. It was agreed by all that the trip was a very instructive and successful one.

The Kerhonkson Union School faculty will attend the southeastern Zone Conference of the New York State Teachers Association on November 3. School will be closed for the day.

Safety instruction is a requirement in all schools of the state. At the present time the high school students are studying a homeroom unit in safety, prepared by Miss Ida Besdesky. In conjunction with it, the students are having fire drills to meet varying conditions. Drills are being conducted while school is in session and while classes are passing. Various exits will be blocked off in an attempt to simulate conditions which may actually exist if a fire occurs.

The next home room unit for the high school will be "Boy-Girl Relationships." The outline is being prepared by Miss Muriel H. Barry.

Last week the Student Council, composed of representatives from grades 7-12, decided how they are going to spend their money during the coming year. Members of the various clubs and organizations petitioned the Council for the amounts which they thought necessary. At the present time, there are 22 activities which are financed solely by student enterprise. Income in the association is derived from "a student tax" which is paid by every student. Various money raising activities during the year. At the present time, the association is conducting a magazine campaign. Herbert Popple is general manager and Harold Burgher and Mary Weigle are assisting. The salesmanship class is deriving actual experience by taking an active part in the campaign.

Plans are under way to present a senior play some time before Christmas. Miss Ida Besdesky will direct the play and Mrs. Vivian Darling will have charge of setting and stage effects. The elementary school newspaper, Classroom Chatter, will be distributed this week. Leonard Greene is editor-in-chief, Marilyn Meschikow, art editor, Helen Erickson, reporter for fifth and sixth grades; Henry Stone, reporter for third and fourth grades; Jimmy Marquit, reporter for first and second grades; Franklin Booth, and Sammy Divine, business managers. The faculty advisor for this issue is Mrs. Floyd Eck.

School was not in session Thursday, October 12, due to the observance of Columbus Day. According to the calendar, the Kerhonkson Union School has made full allowance for the 190 days of school required by state law.

To Entertain

Thomas Crosby, Thomas Crosby, Jr., and Charles Brodhead, local radio artists of Kingston, will entertain at a variety show at the Ashokan M. E. Hall, October 18, at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Raymond Port, popular soprano, and Miss Wilma Boulevard, pianist, are also expected to be present.

Register tonight or tomorrow. Polls will be open until 10 o'clock.

Urges Oil Burner Care

The rapid and steady growth of automatic oil burning heat has revolutionized the heat problem, says Charles H. Gregory, local plumbing inspector. Mr. Gregory says that the householders not only realize the convenience and health protection which the oil burner furnishes on these early cool autumn days, but also the continual and abundant supply of domestic hot water which can be arranged, makes the automatic oil burner not only economical but convenient. The householder is advised not to forget to have the oil burner carefully looked over and inspected each autumn, and see that the motors and parts are cleaned and properly oiled, and ready for instant use, and not to delay for cold weather. Furthermore, Mr. Gregory says that this inspection should not be left to a handy man but an experienced heater and oil burner man should take care of this inspection.

Counsel Agrees

Kansas City, Oct. 13 (AP)—It took an agreement of opposing counsel in a criminal case and a special order from the judge to get Henry Seiker's goats milked. Seiker, a juror, was given permission to go home and do the milking after he reported no one in the neighborhood knew how.

DECEPTIVE PENSIONS

There seems to be a growing belief that the remedy for what ails this country economically is pensions. Especially old age pensions. The purpose is double-barreled. State after state seems on the edge of yielding to the alluring doctrine that if we just give the old folks money enough out of the public treasury, they will not only live comfortably themselves but, in spending their pensions, they will make us all prosperous.

This belief seems to be based on the idea that the mere circulation of money creates wealth, and the faster it circulates, the more wealth there will be for everybody.

A current example is a scheme to be voted on in Ohio next month. It is called the Bigelow old-age pension plan. It would pay $50 a month to all single persons over 60 years of age not gainfully employed, and $80 a month to all couples past 60.

Ohio's present pension system costs the state $13,000,000 a year and the federal government contributes another $15,000,000. This is for people over 65 who have no means of support. The new plan, the state tax commissioner estimates, would cost the state $310,000,000 a year. Statisticians say it would make a net shortage of $240,000,000 a year in the state budget.

Putting so much money into circulation might seem to help in business for a while, but would also invite state bankruptcy. Such schemes are bred of economic delusion. The only real way to produce wealth is to produce and exchange goods, improve property and develop resources.

CLASSICS IN DISGUISE

A change has been coming over American popular music lately. Songs are being written and widely sung which are not only liked by the public but approved by musical scholars, at least as far as the music is concerned. On close inspection, the tunes turn out to have been written by old masters; only the words are new.

Thus a music editor points out that a couple of Tchaikovsky symphonic themes are traveling around on faked passports under the names of "Moon Love" and "Our Love", and Ravel's Pavane is being packaged as "The Lamp Is Low", and Mozart's C Major Sonata, plus a little monkey business, is trying to masquerade as "In an Eighteenth Century Drawing Room." This is not plagiarism; the origin of the music in such cases is usually confessed by the publishers.

The critic naturally asks how it comes about that millions are now accepting music written by masters of the art, where formerly the high-grade music had far more limited appreciation. The critic thinks it was because such compositions were formerly dubbed "classical", which people took to mean dull, foreign and solemn or snobbish. Now, hearing something fine out of its regular setting, and set to words they understand, they love it.

All this is, musically speaking, so much to the good. And now if more authors would write words and sentiments worthy of the music they borrow, we might have a wonderful harvest of fine songs.

CIVILIAN WAR PENSIONS

It is realized at last that modern warfare comes to the people at home as it does to the armies in the field. Bombing planes can make a battlefield of any city or countryside. Men, women and children at their daily tasks may be slain like soldiers.

The British government now gives practical recognition to this fact. There are to be pensions for the "civilians on the firing line." There is to be compensation not only for "the combatant who remains at home" but for the wife or child suffering war injury in the domestic line of duty. The rates are in line with those for soldiers.

"In case of a man's death," explains the Manchester Guardian, "pension and children's allowances will be paid to the widow and, where circumstances justify it, to other dependents. Injury allowances will be paid weekly. The amounts will be fixed, regardless of means, according to the size of the family. A man with a wife and two children treated in hospital will receive 28 shillings and sixpence a week. Pensions will vary with the degree of disablement, with a maximum of 32 shillings and sixpence for a single woman. The widow's pension in such cases is similar to pensions paid soldiers' widows." Here is a precedent which may be followed hereafter in all civilized countries.

War's the biggest of all nuisances. George Bernard Shaw complains that "whatever our work in life may be, we're ordered to stop doing it and stand by."

As for Chamberlain, war has no fighter like a pacifist scorned.

Hooray! The crape-hangers have given way to the paper-hangers.

Ring Lardner was prophetic when he used to call it the "world serious."

THE SICK CHILD

One of the excuses made for a boy or girl of 'teen age who is selfish, rude, ill behaved, lacks courage, or demands his own way, is that he was a weak child or had had many illnesses.

It is only natural that when a youngster is sick, his family, particularly the mother, is likely to be over careful of him. She is continually about him, arranging his pillows, shading the sun or lights, asking him his wants, and in various ways making him feel how important he is to her. It is not any wonder then that should he be delicate or be attacked by a number of children's ailments, he takes advantage of the mistaken kindness of the household. Even between attacks of illness he expects the same "kind" treatment.

Some very sensible advice is given to parents and others by Elizabeth Cotton, Huntsville, Texas, in Hygieia, the Health Magazine.

"Even though special care is necessary, a child should be treated as naturally as possible during an illness, and particularly when he is out of bed and recovering from the illness."

The surroundings of the child during illness should be such that he does not become unduly nervous and upset. The sick child as well as the sick adult needs to be let alone. He should not be constantly questioned concerning what he wants or how he feels. Neither should he be allowed to get the idea that being ill is a privilege because of the undue attention he receives.

From the physical standpoint, when the child is getting better it is important not to let him damage his heart by being up on his feet too much and too soon. This makes it hard for the parent or nurse because the child has been "quiet" so long he is naturally anxious to get up and play.

"Many children are injured permanently because they are allowed to return to school too soon after an illness. No child should be out of bed following such an illness as rheumatism, fever, tonsillitis, scarlet fever, diphtheria, or whooping cough until his temperature is normal from twenty-four to forty-eight hours."

Treating the sick child naturally, keeping him busy as he is recovering, and not letting him get up too soon or do too much work when he first gets up, are the lessons we learn from the above advice.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BUSY ERA FOR OUR SHIPS AND SAILORS

Babson Says We Must Avoid China's Fatal Mistakes

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—The first result of the war to be noticed on the Pacific Ocean is the big increase in activity along the commerce lanes. The European War has hog-tied three of the leading trading nations of the world. Japan and the United States are falling heir to most of Germany's world commerce. Moreover, with England and France hardly able to hold their present trade, the United States and Japan will get the lion's share of the immense increase in world commerce which any extended European War inevitably means. America's Merchant Marine, now second largest in the world, will enjoy its busiest days since 1920.

The richest commercial prize that Germany's lack of sea-power has forced her to give up is her trade with Latin America. As I see it, the only obstacle to a boom in our trade with South American nations is the lack of buying power of these countries. Our difficulty is to find additional products which we can take from South America in exchange for our manufactured goods. Wool, hides, minerals, and coffee are not imported, of course. But Latin America's principal surpluses are copper, oil, and farm products. These we do not need. The riddle will be partially solved by our selling manufactured goods to South America, carrying her food products to Europe and bringing back such things as glassware, olive oil, linen and china.

Europe To Pay Cash

Europe must increase her use of South American food. She will have to pay for it in cash rather than by the barter method of the past few years. This additional cash should help to solve South America's problem of finding the necessary buying power to purchase American goods. Moreover, the United States will probably contribute substantially by extending additional credits to South America through our Export-Import Bank. We have already granted substantial credits to Brazil and other Latin American countries.

Biggest gain in our world commerce will be in our manufactured goods. These were the type of goods that Germany was selling in South America and in other parts of the world. Japan and the United States will grab most of Germany's and some of France's and Britain's former trade in such products as cutlery, bicycles, railroad equipment, chemicals, machinery, high-grade textiles, and the like. We should have the upper hand over Japan, particularly in the case of the most highly-specialized manufactures because Japan's products are cheap in quality and narrow in range of selection. With the present lineup of belligerents, I cannot, however, see any immediate big increase in our exports of farm products—not even cotton.

Shipyards at Capacity

Our shipyards—particularly along the Gulf—will see great activity. Shipyards already busy in turning out war-ships, will be pushed to capacity in the building of new cargo boats. Furthermore, if the Neutrality Act is amended, much of the world trade going to neutral nations will be carried in American boats. The German and British navies will know that American ships will not be carrying even a loaf of bread to the belligerent nations. Shippers will like this additional safety of our vessels and will find the resulting low war risk insurance on American ships attractive. Hence, busy days are ahead for the American Merchant Marine. I doubt, however, if this era for our shipping will continue after the war is over. As I arrive home from my trip to the Orient, I am convinced of one thing: Japan and China can together create the most formidable industrial machine in the world. They can make and export products at unbelievably low prices. They can sweep the goods of every other nation, with the possible exception of Russia, off the seas. The only way other nations can compete with Japan and China is by entirely changing their present economic set-up.

Self-Sufficiency A Snare

I am very bullish on the United States for the next few years, but sooner or later we are going into a real depression. As I reflect on living habits and standards in my home town of Wellesley, they seem so artificial and wasteful that I wonder how long they can continue. We are all living in a fool's paradise with no regard for what the future has in store for our children.

By our policy of isolation and our walls of tariff, are we not following the Chinese? The reason China is so weak today is because her people felt sufficient unto themselves and refused to compete with the rest of the world in scientific methods and progressive learnings. We are foolish in reducing hours and fixing prices as were the Chinese in their belief that because they were the greatest, oldest, and richest nation they had nothing to fear. I wonder if some day there may be a parallel in our histories. We expect to save ourselves by a great tariff wall just as the Chinese tried to save themselves by a great stone wall.

Japan Our Industrial "Enemy"

The Japanese have kept their heads and have not tried such silly notions. As a result, I think that they can, with the help of China, control the manufactures of the world. The United States can keep out foreign goods with a tariff wall; but our wall can't prevent the Japanese from flooding our customers in South and Central America and in other world markets with manufactured goods.

America, to save herself, must change her attitude toward union-labor, price-fixing, hour limitations, and the like. I wish Frances Perkins had been with me on my trip. I am not appealing for manufacturers. I know their faults. I am advocating that we cut out all artificial stuff and be ready to compete with the rest of the world now and in the future. To do this we must adjust wages, hours, and living habits. Such a policy is the only one which will save our children and grandchildren.

GRANGE NEWS

Asbury Grange

The regular meeting of the Asbury Grange was held at the Grange hall Monday evening with Master Clarence Finger presiding. As Booster Night was to be observed, a short business meeting was held. Among other items the turkey supper, which is to be served Thursday night, was discussed. A large attendance to the supper is expected.

A large number of guests was present for the Booster Night program, which was presented by Lecturer Relyea and consisted of songs, skits, quizzes and musical numbers.

A dance will be held at the Grange hall, November 3, consisting of round and square dances with music by the O'Brien orchestra.

It's against North Tonawanda law to give away water but several residents of a new street are getting theirs that way because the city doesn't provide service to their homes. The local ordinance was enacted, City Clerk Jay M. Zimmerman explained, to prevent evasions of water assessments.

Chamberlain Speech Disappointing in That Premier Fails to Give Positive Peace Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
 Washington, Oct. 13.—Prime Minister Chamberlain said what many expected him to say, but there is no concealing the fact that the speech was disappointing in that it failed to give a positive program for a road to peace.

That Britain and France must have guarantees, and that there must be some assurances against a recurrence of the conquest-by-threat idea, which has kept Europe in a constant state of unrest for the last three years, has been accepted as essential to any peace settlement. But the question left unanswered by the British prime minister and the French premier is what formula is to be offered the world for the settlement of international disputes.

Mr. Chamberlain's method is to take by force what he believes has been wrested from Germany by force. Mr. Chamberlain says Britain cannot recognize seizures by force and that reason and negotiation must supersede coercion.

These two viewpoints reveal a stalemate which some day must be broken. Will any of the belligerents—Britain or France or Germany—suggest the solution? Certainly no neutral government dares to do it now. As yet, if professions of concern about saving human lives are to be taken seriously, whether in London or Paris or Berlin, or in neutral capitals, somebody has to come forward with a plan to secure international justice by some method other than force.

The record shows that, since the Versailles treaty of 1919 was adopted, no important concession of territory or economic resources has been made by the victorious powers of the last war. Many people on the allied side insist that a defeated government and a defeated nation does not deserve any revision of a treaty, and that the Versailles pact was fit punishment for the aggressors of 1914.

But, to the German mind, there is no logic in the contention, on the one hand, that a nation must remain in permanent subjugation, and that, on the other hand, it has no inherent right to use physical force when negotiation has failed to produce revision.

Efforts to convince the German people that the present war is an unjust adventure on the part of a misguided ruler like Hitler will not get very far so long as Britain and France do not offer the German nation any concessions or any program for assuring them the "living space" which disinterested economists insist is necessary for a prosperous and orderly Germany.

The British, at the outset of the present war, showed the importance of separating the German people from Hitlerism. Leaflets were distributed by airplane and there has been a great deal done by Britain and France to reach the German rank and file. Yet in the absence of any affirmative program by the British and French, the German people will look askance at efforts to persuade them to overthrow Hitlerism.

What the allies have failed thus far to do is to reveal how the German nation would be better off without Hitler than with him. Although that piece of strategy is apparent in every speech delivered by British and French spokesmen, it has been a great deal done by the allies to reveal the truth about Hitlerism, which has been the true cause of the rise of Fascism in Germany, has been projected.

All Europe today is threatened by the might-makes-right theory, largely because the "have" countries in the last 20 years have shown no signs of removing the peaceful means the factors in the "have-not" countries which have led to social and economic disturbances. Maybe the British and French spokesmen have in mind sooner or later to proclaim war aims—or, rather, peace aims, as they might better be called—but continued silence on these points is not helping to shorten the war, even if one assumes it can only end in the overthrow of Hitler by the German people. SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 12.—Arthur Davis of New Britain, Conn., recently called on friends in the village.

Mr. Davis as a boy spent his school vacations in old Shokan.

The Edmund Kilgallen family has returned to New York after having spent several months as occupants of the C. N. Foster summer home on the Boiceville hill road.

Mr. Kilgallen, formerly a reporter on the New York Sun, is now connected with the Fortune magazine.

Water is still being run through the aerator down at the reservoir. The hundreds of sprays, surrounded by a greensward and trees of colorful foliage, makes a striking picture at this time.

Francis A. Waters, Jr., formerly of Kingston, is a caller here Sunday. Frank is now operating a large farm in Marlborough, near Stone Ridge. He has a herd of 16 cows and some young stock. Recently he supplemented his hay and other dry fodder by putting 80 tons of sweet corn stalks in the silo.

James Griffith of New Jersey spent Sunday at the home of his son, Claude Rose. James is a World War veteran and one time resident of Shokan.

Burton Feeny, one of the old timers of Boiceville, is employed at the Oakes farm near Traver Hollow.

An increase in fall tourists over other years has been noted here this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Windrum and her daughter, Mrs. William Windrum are at the Windrum place on the state road for a few days. This is Mr. Windrum's first visit to Shokan in 18 years. He is a brother of the late Belle and Will Windrum.

The asphalt pavement on Route 28, from L. Colan's store westward into Shandaken, is being treated to a coating of tar and fine surface is made possible on this job by employing a machine rigged up with multiple spreading brushes.

October 11, 1883, the marriage of John A. Lawson to Carrie Ennist, both of the town of Hurley, took place at the home of William B. Ennist, the Rev. J. W. Ennist officiating. The couple, who later resided in Olive for many years, now make their home at old Hurley.

Callers here Tuesday included Mrs. Minnie Every of Traver Hollow, Mrs. Viola Bell and Mrs. Grace Every Griffin.

Charles MacDonald, Kingston man, whose funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at his late residence, was a resident of Shokan for many years, his home having been the "Secor" place on the old state road. Mr. MacDonald, who came here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacDonald, and brother, Clarence, as a young man, was an industrious and respected citizen. Mrs. MacDonald, who is a native of Shokan, has the sympathy of many local friends and relatives in her bereavement.

A variety show will be held in the Ashokan A. E. Church hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The entertainment, sponsored by the members of the Epworth League of the church, will feature a 14-year old girl ventriloquist, Carolyn Penzato, of New Paltz.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Weiss

YESTERDAY: Higgins is acutely embarrassed by questions about the Marchionis. A youngster, Gordon Deane, warns the Forrester about the loneliness of the campus, and the possibility of burglars. Michael hurries him off for a private talk.

Chapter Six Course Of Action

TUCK was irate. "Michael's got a secret and he won't tell me what it is."

"He's a lawyer, Tuck. Lawyers can't tell their wives everything. 'Poof. This hasn't anything to do with lawyering. It's a secret about this house, Bunny, about this place where we're living in. Something awful—and here we're right in it, and that Michael thinks he's going to keep it from us."

"Surely, Tuck— isn't it your imagination again?" Bunny surveyed her friend laughingly.

"Bunny, stop talking to me like that! I tell you, I know it! I can see it. So could you, Bunny Temple, if you'd look. Why—didn't you see how shiny and funny that gardener was? He was scared to death to talk for fear we'd find out something. And I'll just be surprised, Michael, too! He wouldn't have asked Higgins anything in front of me if he'd expected him to know anything. And that boy—sneaking his dog on my cat just in time to keep Higgins from saying something."

"From saying what?"

"I don't know. Something. Something about the Marchionis. And then he tells us all this stuff about burglars just because he wants us to go away—and Miss Lissey doesn't want us here—and Michael's father does want us here, Bunny—and you know what an old fox he is! I tell you, Bunny, we're living in a mystery."

Bunny dropped down on the porch steps and surveyed Tuck's flushed face and shining eyes with interest. "I begin almost to see glimmerings of sense in what you're saying, Tuck," she said slowly. "When you start mentioning the District Attorney. Did you know that I met him on the street, and he asked me pointblank if I were coming out here with you?"

"He did? Really?"

"Bunny nodded. "There," said Tuck. "That just goes to show, I knew he had something up his sleeve. He didn't want me to be here alone, even in the daytime. He's a nice thing even if he is so... Bunny," she broke off suddenly. "What do you suppose it is? A murder? Do you suppose...?"

"Don't be silly, Tuck. If it were a murder or the gardener wouldn't be mixed up in it."

"And Miss Lissey—they're terribly queer, Bunny. But Michael makes me so cross! He let me sit here on the steps and tell him everything I know about Duncan Marchionis and Miss Lissey and everything, and he didn't tell me a thing! It isn't fair, Bunny. And now he's gone over there with Gordon—lent indeed!" she sniffed. "He's gone over there with Gordon just to ask him questions. Questions! About what? What? Bunny's brow was wrinkled.

"That's it. About what? Bunny, let's find out!"

Charlotte Jean

TUCK, looking out over a garden from which the morning sun had not yet taken all the dew, murmured to herself, "I wish I had a crystal. I wish I had something I could ask questions and get the right answers." She tapped idly on the screen as she communed thus with Nature and herself.

It certainly seemed important to get information from somewhere—and since Tuck had the crystal and wouldn't have known when to do with it if she had, she was forced to consider other ways of attaining her object; and in a very few minutes her mind had arrived at the possible solution of the telephone book. She flew through the study door to the little table just inside the dining room door, upon which stood the telephone with its directory lying beside it. She opened the book quickly and thumbed over its pages.

"D... D... D..." she muttered. "It isn't a common name. He said she lived with the Devoes."

"Beg your pardon, Mrs. Forrester, ma'am," Charlotte Jean, busy putting shining blue and white china into the cabinet, turned.

"I wasn't saying anything, Charlotte Jean," Tuck answered absently.

"No, Mrs. Forrester," Charlotte Jean replied obligingly. She looked out a yellow bowl and gave it an extra polish.

"There it is!" Tuck cried. "I knew it—but surely—" She turned to the maid suddenly.

"Charlotte Jean, isn't this house Number Ten, University Campus?"

"It is, Mrs. Forrester, or shall I go and look?"

"Of course it is. I knew it. Well—where would Number Eight, University Campus be?"

"It would be the house down at the end of the Horseshoe like, Mrs. Forrester, ma'am, wouldn't it? The one next to the old maid's house."

"Miss Lissey's," Tuck corrected automatically. "Charlotte Jean, do you know who lives in that house? Number Eight?"

"It's a Professor Devoe and his mother, Mrs. Forrester. The mother is very queer and nobody likes her, and the Professor is very soft spoken and gentle but he can't keep a dog, ma'am."

"My goodness, Charlotte Jean, are you clairvoyant?"

Charlotte Jean frowned anxiously. "I'm sure I hope not, Mrs. Forrester. It doesn't sound..."

"How do you know about them, then?"

Charlotte Jean blushed. "I asked the delivery boy, Mrs. Forrester. I thought there might be some nice girl around for me to go out with on Thursdays, but he says no, there isn't one out here. Mrs. Devoe does her own work in a kind of a way, he says, sort of cluttery and messy, it sounds to me, and Mrs. Deane is a good housekeeper, and does her own work excepting the laundry, and Mrs. McBain has a cleaning woman twice a week."

"Well—did your delivery boy happen to tell you whether or not there is anybody staying at the Devoes?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am. It's Mrs. Marchionis. She's the Professor's cousin, and that sounds as if she'd be Mrs. Devoe's niece, but she doesn't call her aunt at all. Maybe it's a niece by marriage of course."

"Cousin! Oh," Tuck meditated. "What's she like, Charlotte Jean?"

"Frenchy."

"WELL, he doesn't like her. She's a very economical housekeeper, he says, making a lot of soup mostly and salads like all them Frenchy people do; and she puts that red varnish on her finger nails, and won't let anybody talk back to her. He says she ain't a bit like Mrs. McBain that treats everybody like they was human beings; you got to keep remembering you're only a delivery boy with a snub nose when you're talking to Mrs. Marchionis. He doesn't like her."

"Oh, he doesn't like her. Frenchy. Oh," Tuck pucker her brows and thought, Charlotte Jean turned back to the china.

"Why can't he keep a dog?"

Charlotte Jean blinked. "Oh, The Professor, you mean. Maybe he doesn't really want to much. But he doesn't like them and he kicks the delivery boy's dog—though very soft spoken you know—and somebody gave him a puppy and it ran away. The delivery boy thinks probably he kicked it, too."

"Lots of people kick their dogs and they don't run away."

"No, Mrs. Forrester, ma'am. Not after they get to be dogs. But maybe puppies don't realize yet that anybody's liable to kick you and you might as well stay where you are. Maybe that's it."

"I think you're a philosopher, Charlotte Jean."

"Yes, Mrs. Forrester. Do you want them patty shells filled with something for lunch, please?"

"Yes, something. Anything."

Tuck propped her chin on her hand. She could think better that way. Charlotte Jean gave her a friendly understanding glance and went out to the kitchen.

It was only a few minutes before Tuck was in the kitchen too, a red jacket slipped over her white dress, a red silk turt pulled down over her curls. Charlotte Jean saw her as she came through the door.

"You do look nice in that, Mrs. Forrester," she said in honest admiration. "It does become you so much."

"Thank you, Charlotte Jean. By the way, what happened to that parcel of things we found in the house when we moved in? Did you put them away somewhere?"

"Do you mean the books, ma'am, and the pipe? I've got them right here." She went to a cupboard and handed them to Tuck.

"The old dog-eared thriller," Tuck decided. "The Bartered Bride's had enough. Burn this, Charlotte Jean."

She carried the other two articles in her hand as she walked swiftly down the path to Number Eight. It was very much like the house they at present occupied, built of brick and half-timber, but the placing on the lot was a little different, and it was not quite as large as Number Ten. Tuck approached it with a growing feeling of excitement. As she lifted the brass knocker her throat was dry.

It was several minutes before the door was opened. In the hall stood a young woman in a smart blue afternoon dress, with her hair in careful waves; too careful, Tuck thought quickly. As if a cap had just been taken from them, and the hairpins removed.

This was undoubtedly Mrs. Marchionis.

"Mrs. Devoe?" Tuck said uncertainly.

"You wish then to see Mrs. Devoe?" the other woman asked.

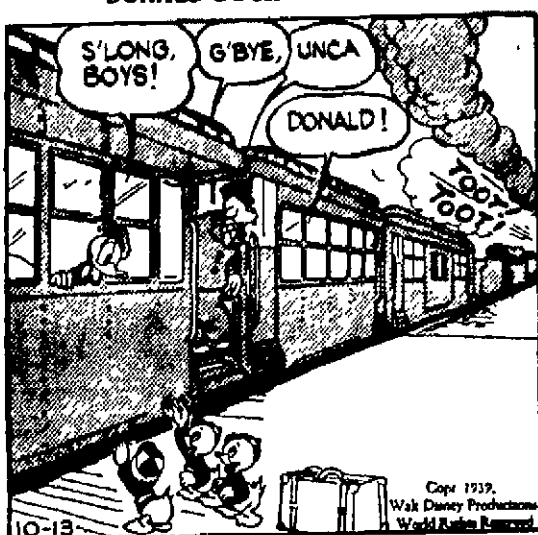

"Thank you—it doesn't really matter," Tuck replied with a smile.

"I am Mrs. Forrester, from Number Ten, and I understood that Mrs. Marchionis who used to have that house lived here now. We found one or two things that belonged to her in the house when we moved in, and I wanted to return them."

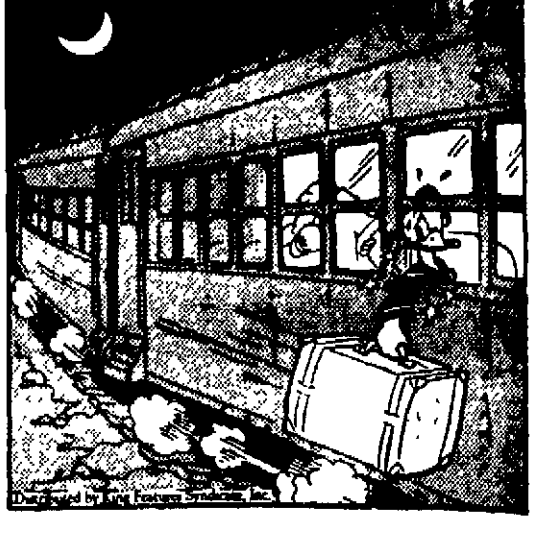

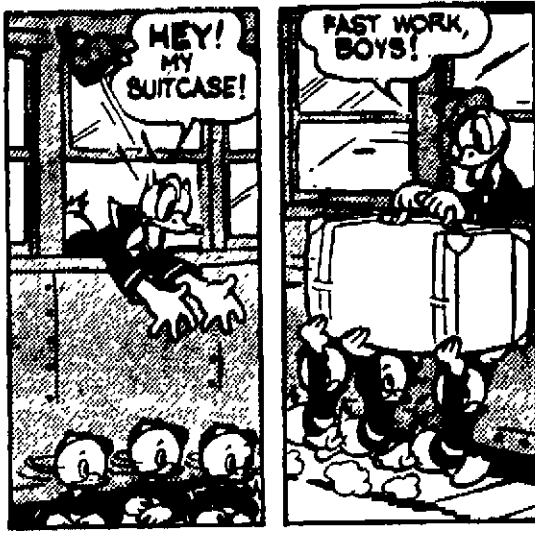

The woman unbent a little, although her black eyes were still sharp. "I am Mrs. Marchionis," she said. "It is very kind of you. I thought I had left nothing."

Continued tomorrow.

OUT OF TURN

OFFICE CAT
By Junius

For months the last congress discussed neutrality, as though neutrality among nations were different than neutrality between individuals.

In our daily lives we are frequently compelled to "remain neutral" when our friends engage in controversies, continuing to treat all friends as such.

In so doing we do not privately or publicly surrender our opinions, but we do preserve our independence, and our self-respect.

Why such neutrality should not exist among nations as well as between individuals is a puzzle.

Junior—Mother, why does it rain?

Mother—To make things grow. To give us apples, pears, corn, flowers.

Junior—Then why does it rain on the pavement?

A colored preacher noticed a new face in the congregation and when the service was over he hurried down to greet the newcomer.

Preacher—Martin, this is the first time you've been to our church. I'm glad to see you here.

Martin—Ah had to come, parson. Ah need some strengthening. Ah's got me a job of white-washing a chicken-coop and building a fence 'round a water-melon patch.

A negro was pleading his own case to save the price of a lawyer. He called his chief witness to the stand and said: "Joshua, where was I when we stole them chickens?"

Negro Minister—Look what de Lawd's done fo' you all, brethren Give Him a portion of all you has. Give him a tenth. (shouting) A tenth belongs to de Lawd!

Perspiring member of the congregation (overcome by emotion)—Amen! Amen! Glory to de Lawd, give Him mo'—give Him a twentieth!

If we "let things slide" they are reasonably sure to slide somewhere where we do not like for them to be.

Student—To whom was Minerva married?

Professor—My boy, when will you learn that Minerva was the Goddess of Wisdom? She wasn't married.

Stranger—Is Hi Brow well known around here?

Native—I'll say he is. He is so well known that he has to go out of town to borrow a quarter.

A negro woman called on the village lawyer.

Negro—Ah wants to di-vorce mah husband.

Lawyer—What's the trouble?

Negro—That nigger's gone and got religion, and we hasn't had a chicken on the table since.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Annual Flowers May Be Sown in Autumn

Fall Planting Of Two Classes

Fall planting is of two kinds: First, the tasks which can be done only in the fall, and second, those which can be performed either in the fall or spring.

There is no option about the first class, which includes the planting of tulip, narcissus, hyacinth and the minor hardy bulbs, and setting out of peonies and madonna lilies. If these subjects have not been put in the ground by the time it freezes you must wait another year to add them to your garden picture.

It is surprising the number who do not understand this and who try to purchase tulip bulbs in the spring. These fall bulbs are imported each year at this time from Holland and are available at no other time. They must pass the winter in your garden soil in order to bloom in the spring.

The second class of fall planting tasks, those which can be done either in fall or spring, include many which are better done in the fall, and the experienced gardener may usually be told by the way in which he gets these jobs out of the way.

Fall planting is essentially a matter of foresight. There is no urge like the spring garden fever, only a keen imagination will bridge over the months of snow and winter just ahead to see the burst of spring glory next year toward which our fall work will contribute. Only one-third of all gardeners undertake fall planting programs.

The optional jobs include planting trees and perennials, making and repairing lawns, and sowing some annual and perennial flower seeds.

A south wall is the best place to plant your snowdrops. Put them near a window, and you will wake up some sunshiny February morning and find them in bloom.

Rodio Is Convicted

Cape May Court House, N. J., Oct. 12.—Dominic Rodio of Philadelphia was convicted today of first degree murder in the "three-men-in-a-boat" drowning of Joseph Arena. A jury of six men and six women recommended life imprisonment. The recommendation makes life imprisonment mandatory. Rodio was accused of drowning Joseph Arena on orders from Philadelphia's murder-for-insurance ring. Two principals in the fantastic Philadelphia poison plot cases testified against the defendant. Rodio took the verdict calmly.

Spade tulip beds early and have the soil ready when the bulbs arrive. Bad weather may set in, which will make digging difficult, and you will have to use speed to get the bulbs in.

Mutt and Jeff Grass
According to the Country Home Magazine, plant explorers who searched the world over for the best grass to use in resodding the Kansas Dust Bowl have finally found it—in Kansas. This new-old grass is really two grasses, blue grama and buffalo. The Mutt and Jeff of the western plains. If the season is dry, the tall, tough grama rudely shows its partner aside and takes over the field. But when wet weather comes, the short but subtle buffalo grass slyly slips in and regains its hold. These grasses are spread by sowing 300 pounds of their hay per acre with a manure spreader. The hay is harvested in September, sown in March, and punched into the soil with a wheel packer.

Highland, Oct. 13.—Dr. Claud C. Colie, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Poughkeepsie, was the guest speaker Monday evening at the annual reception in the activity room, which is accorded the faculty of the Central School by the Parent-Teacher Association. Dr. Colie spoke from the general P-T. A. theme for the year, "Living and Working Together." He started with the first day of school for the little child and wove the theme into a lifetime of relationship between home and school.

The president, Mrs. Francis Gaffney, Jr., presided and reminded the group that this is known as P-T. A. week. She also spoke of the Central Hudson conference to be held October 26 in the Marlborough Central School, and extended thanks to both J. J. Donovan and Elting Martin for the gifts of flowers for the faculty corsages.

Congressman Tells Of Sub Activities

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—Rep. Snyder (D.-Pa.) returned from an inspection of Caribbean fortifications today with a story of extensive foreign submarine operations near United States soil.

Snyder, chairman of the House military appropriations sub-committee, said Governor Lawrence Cramer of the Virgin Islands, had expressed the opinion to him that a flotilla of foreign submarines had been in the Caribbean since early August.

Cramer did not name the nationality of the undersea craft, Snyder said, adding there was belief in the islands that they belonged "to a power embittered against British shipping."

"Some were of the opinion, the congressman said, 'that a big submarine was bringing fuel and other supplies to a number of submarines of a smaller type.'"

The governor's reports, he explained, came from civilians living along the Virgin Islands coast as well as from army and navy patrols covering the Caribbean area.

Expressing enthusiasm for the state of American defenses after an 11,000-mile air tour of army posts on the mainland and Caribbean Islands, Snyder said he believed that there should be further expansion in some branches.

He declared that he would advocate increasing the army's air force from the authorized 5,500 planes to 8,000, to be completed by January 1, 1943.

Edward McCarthy is now assistant scout master, succeeding Sam Castellano. During the winter it is expected that two boys of the local troop will become Eagle Scouts. This honor is to be conferred at a Court of Honor held in the new high school in January with a full scout program. Thursday night in the old school gymnasium a special program and refreshments were in honor of Mr. McCarthy. The troop now numbers 30 boys with four patrols. The leaders of them: Roger Boyce, Patrick Lockhart, Louis Palmer, Jr., Fred Randall. The troop will take part in the Armistice Day activities.

A new street is being opened on the property owned by Philip Elting of Kingston. The work is being done by Anzelone Brothers. The road opens north of where Dr. J. R. Educators Hear Talk

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—Nationally prominent educators heard today a demand from United States Education Commissioner John W. Studebaker for "a really fundamental attack" upon teacher education problems from which schools are "obviously suffering." Addressing the 75th convocation of the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York commemorating the 100th anniversary of the opening of the first state normal school in Lexington, Mass., Studebaker called for "in-service training" to help teachers "keep their minds alert and growing."

Girl Reserves Hold Annual Patteran

A colorful group of 175 Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A., dressed in gypsy costume and under a police escort, took their course through the city streets to Spring Lake Thursday on the annual Gypsy Patteran, held each year on Columbus Day.

Under skies which held just a suggestion of a tawny autumn day, and under trees which already have gay foliage matching the colorful costumes of the happy throng, the girls gathered around a central open fire and first enjoyed their picnic lunches, an appetite for which had been awakened by the hike to Spring Lake. The lunches devoured, the gypsy ceremonial, traditional with the Girl Reserves, was conducted around the fire, the highlight being the unearthing of the treasure buried last year by the presidents of the various clubs, and the burying of a new treasure which will remain until another group of "gypsies" come to find it.

Miss Marian DuBois sang the camp fire "Ceremonial Song" and Miss Gladys Avery sang "Gypsy Sweetheart." Group singing was led by Miss Mary O'Connor and Helen Ward.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Purpose of a Manners," "The Book of Social Usage," etc.)

Initials or Names in Full. Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever correct to use initials on engraved wedding invitations or announcements?

Answer: Correctly, the name should be used in full. However, if it should be a name like Harrison Montmorency Thitherington, then it would be permissible to use the initial of one of the names. For example, H. Montmorency Thitherington or Harrison M. Thitherington, but never H. M. Thitherington. That is too commercial.

Cutting the Wedding Cake. Dear Mrs. Post: There is just one detail of my marriage reception which I am not sure about. Will you tell me at what time during the reception I should cut the wedding cake.

Answer: After you and the bridegroom have received every one's good wishes, you both go into the dining-room and you cut the first piece of cake, which you share with him. After this the other guests cut pieces for themselves.

Secret of Mrs. Three-In-One. Dear Mrs. Post: I have been married about six weeks but have put off asking my mother-in-law to dinner because I cannot cook very well yet, and besides that, she is used to perfect service. We have no maid, and since you have often written not to try to "put on" or do things any better when you have company, I wish you would tell me how you think would be the best way to serve this meat.

Answer: I never meant not to try to have everything especially nice for company, but merely that you should not pretend to be very grand and then perhaps bungle things through not knowing how to carry out your plans. To do everything as well as you can is the first and only rule. Choose a menu that you know best how to prepare and can most easily serve. Good food is that which is good of its kind. Good hash is delicious. A burned outside and raw inside roast is bad. Putting everything for each course on the table and letting your husband serve is the best because it is the simplest way to manage without jumping up every minute. Remember that the effect of doing things smoothly, neatly and with least apparent effort is the sole objective of good service.

A Widow's Rings. Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow and have just received an engagement ring from the man I am soon to marry. Should I continue wearing my wedding ring since I now have this new engagement ring? And another thing, after I am married, what do I do with my old wedding ring?

Answer: In fairness to your husband-to-be, you should of course take off your first husband's ring and put it away. Perhaps some day you can have it gold made into something suitable. If, for example, you have a son, it might be remade into a wedding ring for his bride. (Released By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Ssh! "Gold" Necklace Was Made at Home

Latest in Costume Jewelry. A smart way to add to your collection of costume jewelry! Make this clever necklace of gold and silver nuggets—really chick peas in disguise!

All you need is a handful of chick peas—75 to be exact! First soak the peas until they can be pierced with a needle. Then string them, holding the peas as shown in diagram—36 on one thread, 39 on another. Allow them to dry.

Then dip the string of 36 into clear shellac, liquid gold bronze, and shellac again, hanging up to dry between baths.

The other string of 39 you dip in shellac and liquid silver paint. When dry, resting the peas on stout white thread, doubled. Fasten ends of threads to a clasp.

Or make a bracelet of safety pins and sealing wax! Or a peanut boutonniere! Full instructions for making these and many other beautiful pieces of costume jewelry are given in our new 32-page booklet. Shows how to make stunning necklaces, belts, clips, boutonnières from simple materials.

Ulster W. C. T. U. 59th Convention

(Official Report)

In the Highland M. E. Church on October 11, 1939, President Emma G. Carpenter opened the 59th annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of Ulster county. Because many of the leaders present here were under the influence of the recent national convention at Rochester, N. Y., the Highland convention brought to the county the inspiration of the scenes and messages that had stirred the delegates there. In the afternoon there was a period labeled "High Lights of National Convention" but not only the speakers of this period, but even those giving us itemized reports made them sound boards of the voices inspiring the hundreds who had the privileges found only by those attending national conventions.

The Rev. S. A. Mac Cormac in his greetings from the local church, brought a strengthening and heartening foundation for the departmental considerations to follow, drawing his illustrations from the structure of the church in which he was standing, the materials that had withstood even the great fire of 1891.

A bright portion of the late afternoon program was the music and drama brought by the members of the L. T. L. under the direction of Mrs. Moses Teas and Mrs. S. A. Mac Cormac. This is the only L. T. L. in the county, and the report of the work of this group of young people as given by Mrs. Teas that morning was one of the most interesting among many interesting reports. In fact, work among young people was stressed at many points. And in reports of unions gaining new members, special attention was called to new members under forty. Bait for young lives is being emphasized.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n

School No. 2

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 2 held its October meeting Tuesday afternoon with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy as guest speaker.

In observance of Fire Prevention Week, the pupils of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades were invited to hear Chief Murphy's cautious warning to the parents, teachers and children on how to avoid and extinguish fires. Chief Murphy's instructions were fully absorbed and his general talk on the causes of fire was very much appreciated.

A report of the regional convention held in New York city was given by the president, Mrs. John Form. Also a message was read from Governor Herbert I. Lehman proclaiming the week of October 8 to 14 as Parent-Teacher Week. This message asks citizens to join in its observance and to visit the schools in order to become better acquainted with the needs of the child and what is being accomplished to meet those needs.

The association voted to have a joint meeting with the Kingston units in February to celebrate the 43rd anniversary of Founder's Day. This meeting will be sponsored by the Federated Council of Parents and Teachers.

The banner for attendance was kept for another month, being won again by Miss Anna L. Whitbeck's class.

The next meeting will be held November 14, at which time a reception and tea will be given the new superintendent of schools, Arthur Laidlaw, and Mrs. Laidlaw.

Chemical Treatment for Fish. Chemical treatment of freshwater fish to produce fish preparations similar to those made out of sea fish has been proposed in Hungary, according to the American Chemical society. The purified fish is freed of scales, disintegrated, and soaked in a solution containing common salt, calcium sulfate, magnesium sulfate, magnesium chloride, ferlic oxide, and alum in amounts which saturate the fish with the components of salt water. The treatment softens the bones of freshwater fish at the same time.

Barber Chair

A pony at Santa Rosa, Calif., has been ridden by more than 30,000 children. It is a local barber's idea of solving the problem of keeping children quiet when having their hair cut. The pony is attached to his barber's chair. He sets the youngsters on it, gives them the reins and quickly cuts the locks.

Mrs. E. R. Whitesell, editor of "Woman's Temperance Work" brought us a picture of her "galley" and the "dummy" of her paper and let us into the secret of the burdens carried by an editor who is a proof reader and showed how her work could be made more effective by a realization of just how that work is performed. In the evening, this same Mrs. Whitesell, through the medium of her election and vivid dramatization, made Frances Willard live before us as a human girl and woman with a strong will and mightily purpose and motherly heart.

Officers for another year were elected at this county meeting. President, Mrs. E. G. Carpenter of Plattkill; vice-president, Mrs. L. S. Shultis, Kingston; recording secretary, Mrs. L. Black, Modena; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. V. Smith, Highland.

The leader of the only L. T. L. in the county was re-elected as director of county work among the children of L. T. L. age, Mrs. Moses Teas of Highland.

Fire Prevention Week Discussed At Kiwanis Club

Fire Prevention Week was observed by Kingston Kiwanis yesterday at the weekly luncheon with Chief Joseph Murphy, Deputy Chief Leverich, Superintendent of Fire Alarms Marshall Miller and three of the "veteran" firemen of the Kingston paid department as guests.

Chief Murphy, presented by Ed Bower, chairman of the October entertainment committee, referred to the new fire alarm system which is being installed in the city to bring the system up to date. This system which replaces the system installed in 1896 and improved from time to time, he said, would facilitate the reception of alarms at the fire stations and give prompter service. The system which is being installed at a cost of between $12,000 and $15,000 he said would shortly be in full operation. Chief Murphy said that included in that equipment would be a new switchboard which usually costs about $2,200 but by having it built in Kingston by the Kingston Foundry the board would cost the city about $750.

Superintendent Marshall Miller was introduced by the chief and he gave a summation of the fire alarm system from its installation in 1896 through its various stages of improvement to the present time. From the old system of overhead wires the system has been improved from time to time by placing circuits underground. The new system will give a speedier transmission of the signal from a box to the fire station and at headquarters. Under the new system the alarm is received at the fire station on a paper tape much faster than under the old system. The signal is given at the station and the department knows the location of the box pulled from nine to 11 seconds before the large bell alarm is sounded, giving the department to get on its way before the public bell is sounded. He explained the zoning of the city to facilitate the work of the department and make it possible to add boxes from time to time in each zone without disrupting the number system in the zone. There are 99 fire alarm boxes in the new system and the numbers are so located that the lower numbers for speedier transmission are located in the congested business sections where fire is more liable to occur.

Various safety measures to prevent any interruption in the receipt of an alarm at headquarters have been installed and it is now possible for the chief to speak with headquarters over a telephone which may be plugged into any box.

Other guests of the Kiwanis were Captain Edward Henry Albrecht who has 26 years service, Wright Mains with 31 years service and William McElrath with 30 years of service.

Harold J. Poole, George L. Child, new members, and William L. Lechive, a former member who had returned to Kingston Kiwanis from Catskill were in attendance.

For the benefit of Al Ronder, whose birthday anniversary he was observing, the Kiwanis extended the usual birthday song greeting. Another anniversary being observed was the 25th wedding anniversary of Pratt Boice, who because of the event was excused from making his report of the state convention in Jamestown. An inter-club meeting will be held at Troy on Thursday, October 26. There will be bowling at 2:30 o'clock and in the evening at 6:30 o'clock a dinner party will be held at Hendrick Hudson Hotel. The affair will be an informal stag dinner.

HOW MUCH ARE YOU PAYING FOR Wrinkles?

WEARLONG WORSTED Two-Trouser Suits $35

BY THE HOUSE OF WORSTED-TEX

Do you realize that a suit of clothes that wrinkles quickly may be costing you at the rate of $4 to $10 per year in pressing charges?

Please bear that fact in mind when we tell you about our remarkable Wearlong Worsted Two-Trouser Suit—for here is a suit that requires half as many pressings as the average suit because it holds its shape and crease almost twice as long as the average suit!

Thus you are getting a suit that is not only well worth its $35 price but which is actually worth from $4 to $10 a year more than you pay for it.

When you add to that the fact that Wearlong Worsted gives you the wear of almost two ordinary one-trouser suits—that it hardly ever "shines"—and that it is as smart as any suit no matter how expensive—you can see that we have something out of the ordinary here!

Joneses and Indies Play Little Series Deciding Game on Sunday at 2 P. M.

Jones Dairy, winner of last week's 1-0 City League play-off duel, will attempt to make it two in a row behind Charley Neff and capture the twilight loop championship from the Independents this Sunday at 2 o'clock. The Indies, two conquerors of the Milkmen by 2-1 and 5-7 scores, will be out to annex their second straight pennant with Bobby Bush making his fifth series start.

The Dairyemen, who have edged the Indies by 5-3 and 1-0 counts, will gun for their third and decisive win Sunday at the Athletic Field. Sponsor Jones' crew, given a tremendous boost by nipping the Dawkinsmen in last week's vital duel, will be gunning for their long awaited championship. The Indies will be out to maintain their "jinx" over the Joneses and cap their first win off Neff's delivery.

Past Contest

Sunday's fifth and deciding play-off tilt between the heated rivals is expected to climax the 1939 two-loop season in a blaze of glory. With Bush and Neff dominating the hitters to date, another mound duel should feature the finale. Independents' wrecking crew is about due to tee off on Neff and end the New Palz fire-bell tosser's spell.

Extra bleachers have been installed and Clark's Radio Service will once again be on hand with a running resume of the series play announced by Charles J. Tiano. Tiano's crisp comment has enlivened the series drama and has been another outstanding innovation instituted this season.

The over 6,000 attending the previous four play-off tilts, Sunday's final tussle is expected to draw the season's largest turnout. Both Jones Dairy and the Indies will be at full strength and indications point to the "game of the year" being unrecalled at the historic Athletic Field.

Neff Stars

Charley Neff has been the pitching star of the current "Little World Series" and Jones Dairy has notched 1-0 and 5-3 victories over the Indies with the New Palz speedball slinger on the mound. Neff, working in three games, has allowed only three runs and 11 hits to the Powerhouse while striking out no less than 33 batters. Neff's control, always a bit off-center, has been near perfect, the Jones' ace allowing but four walks.

"Schoolboy" Bush, hurling four complete games for the Indies, has flung sparkling ball throughout. Bush has struck out 32 of the Dairyemen but has issued a high-water mark of 16 free passes. The Indies midget-ticket has given up but 30 bingles in 36 innings and Sunday's pitching duel should climax the season in fitting fashion.

Joneses are outgunning the Independents in the team batting figures, .241 to .219, but the Indies are the better fielding crew by a wide margin. Both teams are evenly matched and a fast, thrills-packed set to be enacted when the teams square off Sunday at 2 on the Athletic Field.

Hardwick Made Archery Prexy

Robin Hood Archery Club elected Robert Hardwick manager at a meeting last night which was held in the Robin Hood Archery Club at Ulster Landing.

Plans were discussed and it was decided to enter competition with various clubs along the Hudson valley. This is the first attempt at organizing an archery club but from the enthusiasm shown at the gathering it should prove to be a growing hobby in Ulster county.

Other club members who were elected to office are Bill Walker, treasurer, and Jimmy Ellsworth, secretary.

Anyone interested in joining the club should get in contact with Myron Van Buren, at 19 Derrenbacher street.

Paralysis Strikes Loyola Eleven

Los Angeles, Oct. 13 (AP)—Infantile paralysis has struck Loyola University's football team.

Quarterback Burch Donahue and Tackle Robert Link were hospitalized. Donahue's roommate, Center Jim Sullivan, was isolated. Right End Paul Sargent and 15 freshmen players were sent home as a precautionary measure.

You Can Chart Those Gridiron Thrills

(By The AP Feature Service)

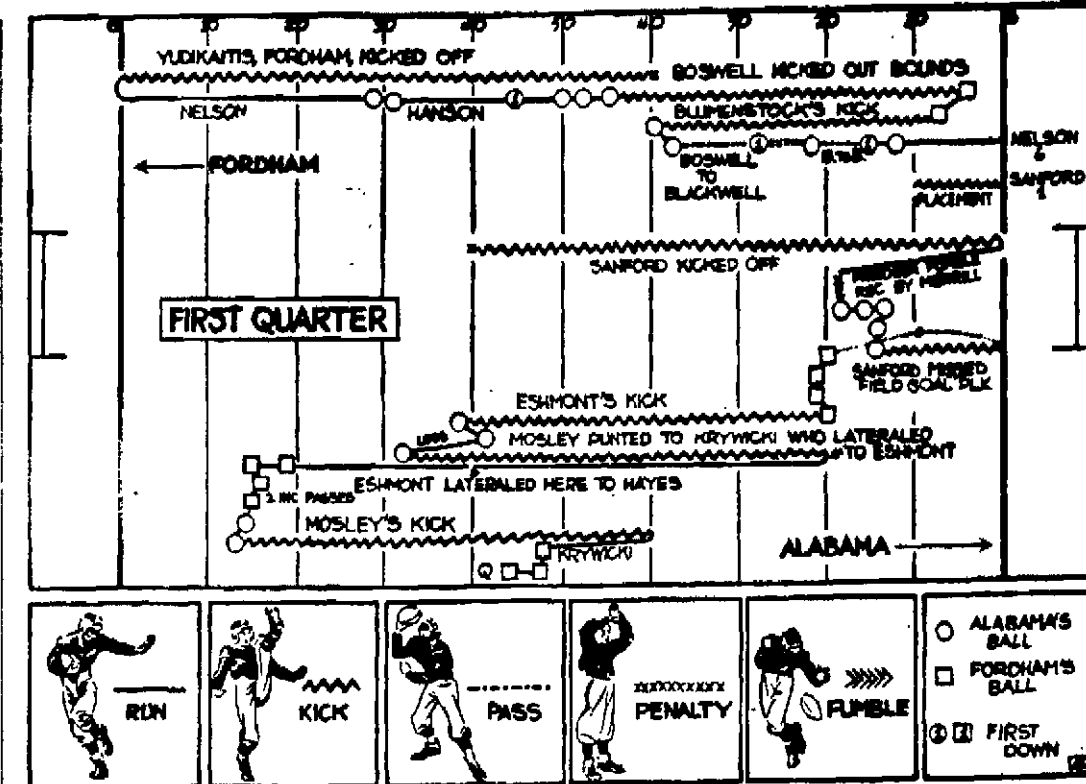

Just to prevent an upstart of a son from giving you the raz 20 years hence about some marvelous gridiron maneuver you allege your alma mater's team performed back in the good old days of 1938 we suggest that you young fathers keep charts at football games.

(Of course, there's no reason why our helpful hint No. 22222222 wouldn't be of service to any football fan or fanette. Anyone may squelch smart alecks by marching to the piano and saying: "Let's look at the record!")

The dyed-in-the-wood baseball fan wouldn't feel at home at a game without a pencil and scorecard to go along with his peanuts and soda pop. But football fans haven't caught the scorecard habit yet. So we'll tell you about it and let you see what fun—or labor—you're missing.

All you need is a pencil and blank cardboard. (You can rule off your artistic idea of a football field with or without a ruler.) Get your goal and yard lines marked off, check a few symbols in your mind and you're ready to draw the game as it unfolds. (This would be a good way to impress the girl friend—keeping a chart just like the experts do in the press box.)

Here are the symbols: 1. Run—a straight line. 2. Kick—a jogged line. 3. Pass—dots and dashes. 4. Penalties—crosses. 5. Fumbles—checks. You can use circles to indicate one team's progress and squares for the other. Put a 1 inside the circle or square whenever either team makes a first down. (P. S.: It adds to the color scheme if you use a red pencil for one team and a blue for the other. P. P. S.: Printed charts, which save you all the trouble of mapping out the field, can be bought at sporting goods stores.) The accompanying chart is for the first quarter of the Alabama-Fordham game in New York Oc-

Football Selections For Saturday Games

By HERB BARKER

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 13—Ready to blame it all on the Friday-the-13th jinx, this football corner hazards the following guesses on the outcome of this week's program:

Notre Dame-Southern Methodist: These Mustangs are really hard to ride as Oklahoma would be ready to testify. They have speed and a clever attack. Notre Dame barely squeezed Purdue and Georgia Tech but the point is the Ramblers did get by. Well take Notre Dame, freely admitting it's largely through force of habit.

Pitt-Duke: Nothing has come close to stopping either so far. The Pitt offense is much more deceptive than usual and Duke is generating much greater scoring power than Wallace Wade's great outfit of 1938. This is no spot for expecting so the coin is flipped... and says Pitt.

Tulane-Fordham: The Rams should show to better advantage than they did against Alabama but the nod must go to Tulane.

Southern California-Illinois: Can't see how any of Bob Zuppke's slyest tricks can save the Illinois Southern California.

Texas Aggies-Villanova: Taking Texas A. and M. with due warning to watch out for Nick Basca, Temple-Texas Christian: Temple's tight defense but has revealed no scoring punch, explaining this ballot for T. C. U.'s Horned Frogs.

North Carolina-New York Univ.: The Violets are dangerous again but this vote goes to North Carolina.

Georgia-Holy Cross: Both soundly whipped last week which is no particular help. Out of the hat, Holy Cross.

Minnesota-Purdue: This represents real trouble. Purdue is rested and ready. This hunch on Minnesota is based on the assumption the Gophers' defeat by Nebraska brought them down to earth.

Ohio State-Northwestern: The same reasoning might go for Northwestern but we'll string along with Ohio State.

Texas-Oklahoma: Unquestionably a case of between the devil, etc. Texas definitely has returned to the first flight but Oklahoma's achievements thus far entitle the Sooners to the nod.

Michigan-Iowa: A great back in Nile Kinnick and a great end in Edwin Parness makes the Hawkeyes a threat but the choice is Michigan.

Chicago-Harvard: Harvard rates the edge.

Wisconsin-Indiana: Indiana on what seems to be superior scoring power.

Navy-Dartmouth: Probably very close. Taking Dartmouth.

Yale-Penn: Ditto this one. The coin says Penn.

Columbia-Army: Both may be sub-normal this year, making this a case of enie, meenie... Army.

Manhattan-Duquesne: Duquesne in another close one.

Colgate-Brown: The ballot goes to Brown.

Syracuse-Georgetown: Georgetown good.

Catholic-Detroit: Even-Stephen, Detroit.

Louisiana State-Rice: And still it's tough going. L. S. U.

Auburn-Mississippi State: The choice is State.

Virginia-Maryland: Virginia looks good.

Vanderbilt-Virginia Military: We haven't guessed right on Vanderbilt yet. Reproachfully, Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State-Wake Forest: Not much to choose. Wake Forest.

Michigan State-Marquette: A timid nod toward State.

Iowa State-Nebraska: Nebraska handsly.

Baylor-Arkansas: Maybe the Razorbacks can put together two good games in a row. Arkansas.

California-Oregon: The Webfoot are hot. Oregon.

Stanford-U. C. L. A.: Looks like more trouble for Stanford, L. C. L. A.

Washington-Washington State: Taking Washington but would be glad to settle for a tie.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Bucknell over Albright, but close; South Carolina over Davidson; Mississippi over Centenary; Virginia Tech over William and Mary; Washington and Lee over Southwestern (Tenn.); but beware of that one: Georgia Tech over Howard; Kentucky over Oglethorpe; Tennessee over Chattanooga; Alabama over Mercer; Furman over Citadel; Carnegie Tech over Case; West Virginia over Cincinnati; Tulsa over Oklahoma A. and M.; Missouri over Washington University (St. Louis); Kansas State over Colorado State; Drake over Creighton; Penn State over Lehigh; Richmond over Rutgers; George Washington over Butler; Lafayette over Muhlenberg; Denver over Wyoming; Utah over Brigham Young.

The United States army in the Mexican war numbered only 100,000 men.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

March in Time

Logansport, Ind.—Frances Remley, 23, teaching 37 fourth and fifth grade school children at Lucerne, heard the classroom ceiling creaking. She marched the boys and girls outside. Soon after, plaster and steel lath over the room fell with a loud crash.

Four-Wheeled Trap

Hop Bottom, Pa.—There was a hitch in the ride of John Gallons, 49, thumbed from a motorist. The motorist turned out to be State Trooper John McGinn, who wasn't going anywhere in particular. He was just looking for Gallons—wanted on a charge of robbing a truck driver.

Jinx

Seattle—Friday the 13th may be lucky for black cats. The city pound will sell black cats, and any others on hand, for 13 cents apiece and dogs for $1.13. It's part of a "break the jinx day."

Certain

Salt Lake City—Judge Oscar W. McKelvie made certain Max Wilkinson would be present for his trial on burglary charges. Wilkinson walked out of the courtroom after his request for a separate trial was denied so the judge ordered him handcuffed to a chair.

Blessed Harvest

Dunbar, Neb.—Dunbar churches are augmenting their finances with corn. Last spring officers of the Presbyterian Church suggested farmer members plant an acre each for the church. Other churches followed suit. Now the church bins are beginning to fill up from fields yielding an average of 45 bushels per acre.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Achievement Day

One of the most complete and elaborate 4-H Club entertainment units ever developed will be made available to the people of Ulster county on October 21, County Club Agent E. R. Bower announced today.

The evening program consists of singing, introduction of 4-H Clubs and the awarding of Achievement pins to 4-H Club members; talking pictures, the feature of which is the dramatized all-talking version of the famous novel, "Under the 4-H Flag." The program will include in addition to the feature picture a 4-H news reel, an educational short called "Hidden Values," and a cartoon comedy.

The big event of the evening in which everyone is vitally interested in today is a talk on "Boys and Girls of Other Lands" by Frederic Snyder. Mr. Snyder is very well acquainted with 4-H Club work not only in the United States but other countries. He no doubt will tell everyone what some of the boys and girls do in countries where there are no 4-H Clubs.

The program will be held at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Kingston and will start promptly at 7 o'clock.

Admission will be free and there will be no collection of any kind taken at this program. Mr. Bower declared. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in the aims and aspirations of the 4-H movement and to give its members, their families and friends and all others interested in agriculture a real treat in the way of high grade entertainment.

This county's 4-H organization will have an opportunity to participate in an attendance contest whose awards amount to $2,000. Mr. Bower said. The award of prizes will be made on the basis of the proportion of the county's rural population that attends the program. All counties in the country in which the picture will be shown will participate in the contest and the county winning first prize will get a check for $1,000, which is to be devoted to 4-H Club activities.

Swedish Traveler Finds Germany Sad

People Doubtful of Victory And Some Complain.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN.—Scenes behind the lines in western Germany are described in an interview in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter with a Swedish woman who traveled from Zurich to Berlin in the early days of the war.

"All were desolate and none wanted war," she said of those Germans she met. "Extremely few were certain of victory. Sorrow was swept over Germany."

She told how, amid the hectic scenes of evacuation of the cities, a young man with a Nazi party badge, complained that he had been called a traitor and threatened with expulsion from the party because he sent his family into the country before the evacuation order.

An exhausted worker in concrete from the foremost section of the Westwall got on the train at Frankfurt on the Main and said that 1,000 men had had their marching orders Sunday night and that in the course of a forced march of 20 miles two had died of exhaustion and two were executed for trying to loot abandoned homes. Serving six months as worker he had never had a free day and worked 11 hours a day, even on Sundays.

Many of those being evacuated believed rumors that there was a revolution in France and that the French at the front had asked Germans not to fire, saying the French workmen would not fire either. Great Britain, they said, was thus the only enemy.

Blind Miner Digs Daily On Utah Mountain Slope

SALT LAKE CITY.—Totally blind and alone, James Newman digs daily for gold along the slopes of the Wasatch mountains just east of Salt Lake City in the hope he will some day make a "strike" that will bring him wealth, and, possibly, restored eyesight.

Newman was blinded 10 years ago when a dynamite charge exploded prematurely.

Anxious to return to his claim, Newman was back on the job almost before his wounds healed. But despite his handicap, he is far from helpless. He knows every inch of his 600-foot hillside shaft. Daily he drills, blasts, mucks, lays rails and cuts ties. He has built the shaft eight feet high for maximum safety.

But when and if he uncovers the precious metal, he must rely on friends to tell him. So far his "strikes" have been minor ones.

Newman has been digging for gold minus his sight for 10 years. But he's so sure he'll "hit" that he's prepared to dig another decade.

Foolish Requests Annoy California Police Chief

CORONADO, CALIF.—Police Chief Jordan thinks he has the wrong kind of a job—because people ask him to do foolish things.

Without waiting for a reply a feminine voice on the telephone asked him if he kept stamps on hand and then went on ordering one to be delivered immediately to her home. Still another feminine voice on the telephone queried:

"Who won the horse race at Hollywood today?"

And while Jordan and the boys tried to figure that one out she continued with:

"Well, I'd like to know whether Los Angeles won the baseball game with San Diego this afternoon or not and what was the score?"

Chief Jordan says he is thinking about asking the chamber of commerce and a messenger service to merge forces with the police department.

Australia's Surplus of Food to Go to Britain

CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA.—Britain's food supply for the new war was bolstered under an arrangement announced by Prime Minister Robert Menzies.

The arrangement calls for British purchase of Australia's surplus production of butter, cheese, meat and eggs and canned and dried fruit.

Meanwhile, the government, acting upon advice of defense experts, decided to call up the entire militia of 78,000 for training.

Luck Runs Out at 34

LONDON.—After fighting in four wars, surviving a shipwreck in which 100 men were drowned, and living through a famine in Russia, John Bell Findlay, an 84-year-old sea captain, was knocked down and killed by a motor car in a London suburban street.

Woman Magician Does Her Tricks at Age 107

ANCONA, ITALY.—Born in central Italy 107 years ago, Fortunata Reghizzi earns her living going from village to village entertaining children by doing sleight of hand tricks. Her 80-year-old daughter accompanies her and assists in performing some of the tricks. The husband of the century old woman served as an officer under Garibaldi; their three sons died in the World war.

Police Say Elevator Man Drugs His Son

years ago. His parents had saved $500 for the operation.

The mother, Florence, 40, who had given Raymond an infant's care every day of his life, was near hysteria.

"I loved him," she wept. She said that within six months after her son's birth, she knew he was not normal.

"His toes turned in," she said, "and he couldn't learn anything." The mother and Jeannette, 2, her youngest child, were shopping when the tragedy occurred. The other three Repouille children—Lillian, 11, Alphonse, 7, and Anna, 5—had been sent to the movies by their father.

Children Shout Tidings

They were met on their return by a crowd of neighborhood playmates who chanted:

"Your father killed Raymond. Your father killed Raymond."

Police took the mother and children to a station house for shelter. Repouille was held incommunicado overnight despite protests of his lawyer, Paul O'Dwyer.

The case was the second of its kind to confront police here in less than a year. Jerome Greenfield, 45, a milliner, was acquitted last spring of manslaughter in the "mercy killing" by chloroform of his 17-year-old imbecile son, Jerry.

Streams Still Too Low For Stocking With Trout

Inspector F. G. DeWitt of the Kingston office of the Conservation Department, said this morning that the department was doing nothing as yet in the matter of restocking streams in this section. He said the streams still were too low for restocking.

As a result of the extreme drought conditions which have prevailed this summer Inspector DeWitt and his force in this district have been busy since June doing all in their power to protect the fish population of the streams in this section. Although many trout have been lost through the depredations of water snakes and other enemies, as the streams have dwindled to a shadow of their normal volume, thousands of them have been removed by the game warden and transferred to deeper waters.

Fifty per cent of the drowning in this country occurs in June, July or August.

Register tonight or tomorrow. Potts will be open until 10 o'clock.

Farm Youth Goes Insane, Dies as Result of Prank

Fulton, Mo., Oct. 13 (AP).—Raymond Soukup, 26-year-old farmer, went into his field to get corn stalks at night. Excessive heat had made day-time labor too strenuous.

He reached the end of his field, which borders a cemetery. Then, Soukup related:

Several white-garbed figures popped up. Two, moaning weirdly, leaped toward him. Soukup was too frightened to run. His parents discovered him, still hysterical, hours later.

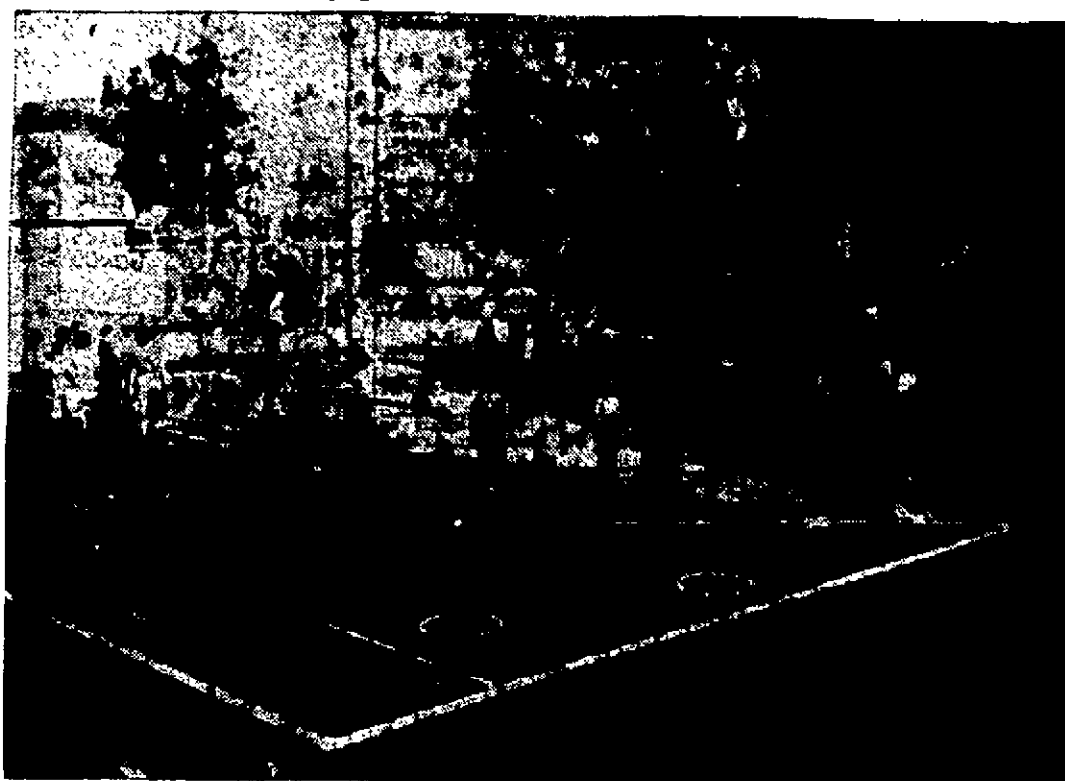

That was September 22. Soukup died yesterday at a state hospital.

A physician who treated the young farmer, said death was due to maniacal exhaustion resulting from an unusually severe mental disturbance.

Frank Soukup, the father, said Raymond had been in good health until his fright. A week later Raymond was adjudged insane and committed to the hospital.

Register tonight or tomorrow. Polls will be open until 10 o'clock.

New Playground at School No. 3

The above picture shows the transformed playground at School No. 3 on Chambers street, the first of the playgrounds to be modernized under an experiment being carried on by the board of education. The dirt area has been graded and covered with Black Top and lined in orange and white lines by the City Street Department, thus assuring the permanency of the markings. Volley ball is being played in the foreground by a group of boys and field dodge ball is being played by a mixed group in the background. The markings enable at least three games or recreational activities to be carried on simultaneously.

Registration for Night School on Monday Evening

Registration for night school will be held in Hall A, Kingston High School, Monday night, October 16, at 7 o'clock. Anyone not in attendance at day school is eligible to attend. Instruction will be mostly individual and will be suited to the needs of the students. Courses will be offered in the following subjects:

Americanization: For those seeking American citizenship, or desiring a better knowledge of our language and institutions.

Business: Bookkeeping, shorthand and typing for beginners and also for those who have previously studied these subjects.

Homemaking: Sewing and cooking. Students may select either subject, or alternate between the two classes.

Vocational shop courses: Machine shop, wood working, practical electricity, auto mechanics and needle trades, using the new power sewing machines.

The following are suggested as some of the new courses in which classes might be formed if there is a sufficient demand (15 per class): Current events, modern literature, French, mathematics, science, public speaking, photography, music, art, architecture.

The invitation is given to "Bring your problems to night school and let us help you. Our courses are intended to meet the educational needs of the public."

1940 La Salles and Cadillacs Are Here

Representative models of the seven series of 1940 LaSalles and Cadillacs are now on display at the showrooms of Stuyvesant Motors, 250 Clinton avenue.

Two series have been added to the five build by Cadillac during the 1939 model season. These, the LaSalle Special and Fleetwood Seventy-two, give the General Motors unit its most comprehensive spread through the medium and upper price ranges.

The LaSalles have frontal resemblance, although entirely different passenger compartments. Again a distinctive, narrow radiator, center-piece in hood and high-crowned fenders. Headlamps, of improved construction, are fender-mounted. Bodies of each series carries the gently curving all-steel top, but the Special's lines are more strongly reminiscent of the low-slung Cadillac Sixty Special that has set new styling standards.

All 1940 Cadillac and LaSalle models will carry the "sealed beam" headlamp that offers better visibility for night driving. In this radical departure, the bulb lens and reflector are built integral, keeping the light in fixed adjustment once it has been installed.

Frames are heavier and in the LaSalle Special and Cadillac Sixty-two the dash, toe and floor boards are welded into a single piece, adding to insulation and rigidity of front compartments. Fundamentally no change has been made in the V-8 engines that will again power all series save the Sixteen. Cadillac motors are more powerful than the LaSalle's, due to greater weight of the Cadillacs. The performance of all cars matches the illustrious standards of earlier models. The complete line will include 47 body types, listing the optional sliding panel roof on three of the sedans.

Numerous advances in both chassis and bodies will find favor. One innovation of the two LaSalles and two lowest priced Cadillacs injects a custom note of striking eye-appeal. Optional upholstery fabrics will this year be accompanied by choices in the shade of the dash panel, control knobs and garnish moldings. Thus all interior fittings will be in complete harmony.

Cadillac-La-Salle's new seat cushions combine the advantages of three materials. Marshall springs form the base, topped by a layer of foam rubber and cotton or wool padding. Engineers have in this manner been able to obtain the softness of newly perfected foam rubber without sacrificing the ventilation qualities of former materials.

The new clear-vision glass is adopted to both windshields and body windows and eliminates distortion formerly present where plastic was used as a binder between layers of safety glass. In addition, there is no possibility of loose fragments when the glass is shattered.

Cadillac's directional turn indicator has been approved by leading state safety commissions. Its control is located on the steering wheel. An unobstructive lever, drawn upward or downward, dependent on the direction of the turn, starts in operation a flasher signal in both the front and rear parking lamps. These lamps have been so designed that the beams are visible from all angles.

Several refinements are involved in reduced operating expense that amounts to a 10 to 45 per cent saving. Of prime importance is a special automatic spark advance controlled by pressure in the intake manifold.

"I have grave fears for the future of my 5-year-old son," a man said yesterday. "Last night," he explained, "I took him to a barber shop for a hair-cut and he out-talked the barber."

The American Red Cross had a membership of 16,000 in 105 Chapters when the World War broke out in 1914. Today, through peace-time development, the American Red Cross embraces a membership of nearly 6,000,000 men and women in approximately 10,000 Chapters and branches.

Register tonight or tomorrow. Polls will be open until 10 o'clock.

It took 25 pounds of lard and several hours of scrubbing to clean Stale, a 480-pound cow of Tonawanda, after she maddened off her owner's property and toppled into a coal tar pit.

Miss Lena Todd says she never knows where a rare fungus growth that appears annually in her cellar at Cuba, N. Y., will turn up next. It never has grown twice in the same place, she says.

Congratulations on your promotion, Bill. If you keep on at your present rate you'll be running the plant someday.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP)—Efforts to revive the war-buying spirit in today's stock market met with opposition and early gains of fraction to 2 points were eventually chopped down or converted into declines.

Dealings, fairly active at the start, reverted to a mere dribble as the session proceeded. Near the final hour the ticker tape occasionally halted for intervals of a minute or so. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 800,000 shares.

European securities markets turned hesitant. Bonds were narrowly mixed and a forenoon forward tilt in commodities lost momentum.

Stocks in favor at one time or another were Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse du Pont, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Johnson, and Phillips Dodge.

Posting modest improvement in the war-buying spirit in today's stock market met with opposition and early gains of fraction to 2 points were eventually chopped down or converted into declines.

GOP Supervisors In Five Towns Are To Run Unopposed

Republican leaders are finding considerable satisfaction in the announcement that in five towns of the county the Democrats have made no nominations for the office of supervisor.

The statement was confirmed this noon by John B. Sterley, clerk of the Board of Elections, who added, in reply to a question, that the time limit had now expired in which vacancies on the tickets might be filled.
The towns in which, apparently, Republican supervisors are to win hands down in November, because of lack of opposition are: Gardner, Lloyd, New Paltz, Plattekill and Shawangunk.
In all of these towns the present Republican supervisors are candidates for re-election: Roy F. Deniston, Gardner; John F. Wadlin, Lloyd; Howard H. Grimm, New Paltz; Harry D. Sutton, Plattekill; Edward E. Murray, Shawangunk.

Scientists Find Navajo Shrine in Arizona Cave

ROUND ROCK, ARIZ.—Scientists from Columbia university have just reviewed evidence presented by Dr. William A. Gardner that he had found a giant grotto which he believed to be an ancient Navajo Indian shrine and the legendary council chamber of the tribal gods.
The cave was discovered in a remote section of the rugged canyon country near here in a region seldom traversed by white men.
Gardner was led to the cave by San Day, an Indian guide, who accidentally discovered the "council chamber of the gods."
Inside they found a 200-foot mural of Navajo ceremonial figures and symbols. Lying before four clay images were piles of turquoise beads, corn and pollen, which indicated the Indians used the cave as a holy shrine, Day said.
The paintings were six feet high and were done in bright colors—red, blue, green, lilac, yellow, black and brown.
The images, perforated with holes which formerly held painted sticks imitating the sun's rays, were of the Navajo sun god, Johnnani, Day said. Ancient Navajo legends tell of a secret rendezvous where tribal gods assembled. The gods, so the legends go, left paintings of themselves to guide the tribe in its ritual.
Gardner is believed to be the first white man to see the holy shrine.
Five American presidents were school teachers in their early careers.

Martocci Gives Columbus Address

The people of this country would make this a greater and a finer America if they would preserve the enthusiasm, determination and pioneering spirit of Columbus, the members of the Glasco Italian-American Club were told last night by Attorney Francis Martocci of Poughkeepsie, principal speaker at the Columbus Day dinner held at Schoentag's Hotel on the Saugerties road.

Attorney Martocci said that Columbus was one of the greatest Italians that ever lived and it was his determination and spirit that led to the discovery of this country. The vigor of our history, he said, came largely from the fact that as a comparatively young nation we have gone ahead doing things that had never been done before.

The Revolutionary War, he said, was a crusade for an ideal, and our Constitution was the conception of that ideal, and its spirit has been kept by millions of our people.

Other speakers at the banquet were Frank Campochiaro and Alderman Donnarumma.

DeGroat Mead, 40 Kills Himself

DeGroat Mead, aged 40, of Highland, committed suicide about 9:15 o'clock this morning by shooting himself in the head with a double barreled shotgun. Mead had complained of not feeling well of late.

The act took place at the farm house owned by Mead but which was occupied by Harrison Bundy, who was employed by Mead as a truckman. Mr. Mead was engaged in the collection of ashes.

This morning Mead went to the farm where Bundy resided and sent Bundy out on an errand. Before Bundy left Mr. Mead inquired of Mr. Bundy whether his shotgun was loaded and was told that the gun was not loaded since he did not believe in having a loaded gun about the premises. On his return he discovered Mead's body.

Sergeant E. J. Hulse was notified of the suicide and with State Trooper James Benson made an investigation. Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was notified and issued a certificate of death by suicide.

Mead leaves his wife and five children. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Carpenter who moved the body to his funeral parlors at Highland. Funeral arrangements had not been made.

Rosendale Holds Gala Week-End

Former residents of the town of Rosendale began coming back home last night in the third of the town's pilgrimage in the six-year history of the Rosendale Township Association. With a four day week-end available for many, the capacity crowd over the holidays to take part in an elaborate program of entertainment planned.

President Joseph O'Connor, of the Township Association, asserted that letters of invitation had been sent to more than 700 former residents of the township and that a large part of these are sure to be in town on one or more of the four days.

One of the feature events of the week-end will be a conducted tour through the cement mill and mines of the Century Cement Corporation Saturday afternoon. Andrew J. Snyder, known by most of the old timers as the man who is re-creating Rosendale cement on world markets, takes pride in conducting his former neighbors through his huge modern plant.

On Saturday evening there will be a reception and dance at the Firemen's Hall in Rosendale.
